The Pocono Record

Vol. 84—No. 191 | The Stroudsburgs, Pa. — Monday morning, Nov. 14, 1977 | 20 Cents

SNOW TIME AGAIN — Jason Landau, 10, of Tamaqua, Pa., may be rushing the season a bit as he tries to pull kid brother Jon, 7, up a snowy hill near his home, but tobogganing for real isn't very far away. The Poconos had a preview of winter this weekend with snow flurries and cold temperatures, but no accumulation. (UPI)

Striking dock workers set for contract vote

NEW YORK (UPI) — A tentative settlement was reached Sunday in the six-week strike by dock workers against container ship operations that has left $4 billion in goods piled up in ports from Maine to Texas.

International Longshoremen's Association President Thomas Gleason said he hoped to have the contract with ocean carriers ratified by Friday so the men can return to work next weekend.

The agreement, announced shortly after 5 p.m., directly affects 35,000 ILA members working in ports from Maine to Virginia.

Gleason said the three-year pact would provide a pattern for talks that would take place this week in ports on the south Atlantic, southeast Florida and Gulf coasts. The ILA represents an additional 15,000 dockworkers in those ports.

At a news conference held following announcement of the accord, Gleason said he felt the other locals would "fall in line."

Gleason said the agreement included landmark job security provisions to protect longshoremen's jobs as more and more work is handled by the labor-saving containerization systems.

"As far as the job security plan is concerned, there's nothing like it, I think it will spread to other industries," Gleason said.

While Gleason refused to disclose details of the provisions until his membership is notified, he said, "The union held that the ocean industry must protect worker benefits from the impact of containerization and other automated forms of shipping that have caused a fall-off in jobs for ILA members and impacted benefit funds."

The union and the shippers had been working on a master contract since April 1.

Feminists, conservatives to meet

Women set for showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National Women's Conference delegates will witness an unprecedented showdown this week between feminists and a coalition of conservatives — including the Ku Klux Klan — who say equality will destroy the American family.

An estimated 20,000 women will meet in Houston Friday for the start of the $5 million federally sponsored meeting — the first such gathering of its kind in U.S. history.

Among them will be about 2,000 official delegates eligible to vote on a sweeping platform of women's issues including abortion, lesbian rights and the Equal Rights Amendment.

Most people — ranging from conference leader Bella Abzug to Klan Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton — expect a confrontation during the four-day meeting. Some fear violence.

Women's rights advocates will dominate the delegation by about four to one. Thus the meeting was expected to enact a strong feminist platform, which later will be submitted to Congress and the president.

But neither side knows who will win an equally important battle for sympathetic media coverage. Some 750 print and broadcast reporters will be covering the meeting.

"American women will be on trial this week — in the eyes of the world, the press and the politicians," said Ruth Clusen, League of Women Voters president. "If we blow it, we may never get another chance."

Feminists hope the meeting will advance their cause. Fredi Wescheler of the National Women's Political Caucus predicted it would provide feminist ideas "a platform, legitimacy and an appearance of being in the mainstream."

But Phyllis Schlafly, a leading opponent of women's rights, said the meeting will simply expose unpopular feminist ideas, like lesbian rights. She predicted it would be the "death knell" of the women's movement.

Each side has accused the other of conspiring to use the meeting for its own purposes. The feminists say the right wing is using the session to build political clout for other campaigns — the Panama Canal treaty and even Mrs. Schlafly's own potential Senate bid.

"We in the league know better than most that this coalition represents not just anti-ERA sentiment, but the same forces that oppose so many other things we support," Mrs. Clusen said.

The organized opposition to women's rights, which began about five years ago with Mrs. Schlafly's Stop ERA group, will identify itself in Houston as the "pro-family" caucus.

The Schlafly forces argue that feminist goals — the ERA, lesbian rights, abortion, sex education, child care centers — subvert Biblical teaching by altering the traditional American family unit.

Thinkingperson's guide to women's issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Women's Conference promises to be a battle between "pro" and "anti" factions on many women's issue. But these factions sometimes are confused by the jargon they use.

For example, "pro-life" actually means "anti-abortion."

The following guide is designed to decode many other confusing catch-phrases used in the debate over women's issues:

—"Pro-choice" means you support a woman's right to choose an abortion.

—"Pro-family" means you oppose equal rights for women.

—"Anti-feminist" means you are "pro-family."

—"Bias-free" means something does not favor either sex.

—"Gender-free" means it does not imply either sex.

—"Non-sexist" means it does not assume a particular role for either sex.

—"Non-traditional" normally describes male jobs sought by women.

—"Unborn" refers to a fetus.

—"Libber" is a derogatory term for feminist.

—"Sexual preference" is a topic heading for gay rights.

— "Reproductive freedom" refers to contraception and abortion.

Consumers' coalition warns of 'blackmail prices' on gas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A consumers' coalition is asking the new Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to make sure "blackmail prices" are not charged for emergency natural gas supplies if shortages occur this winter.

Spokesmen for the National Gas Consumers Coalition, comprised of consumer groups, unions, electric cooperatives, farm organizations, state officials and members of Congress, announced plans Sunday to file a petition urging FERC to assure gas supplies at government-controlled prices.

The petition, to be filed today, asks FERC to stop gas producer practices they contend are keeping large supplies from reaching the national market at controlled prices.

It says FERC should use its existing authority to prevent interstate gas producers from favoring intrastate markets, end large diversions of offshore gas to preferred customers and require producers to deliver all the gas they originally agreed to supply to pipelines.

In addition, it asks FERC to take a new look at a decision by its predecessor, the Federal Power Commission, to raise new gas prices from 52 cents per unit to $1.42.

The planned filing of the petition was announced by Energy Action director James Flug, Martin Rogol of Congress Watch and Ellen Berman, director of the Consumer Federation of America's energy policy task force.

They said in a joint statement consumers had to pay unregulated prices for emergency gas supplies last winter because the FPC failed to use its authority to move available gas into the national market.

"We should not have to pay blackmail prices in order to get gas that we are entitled by law to get at the already too high controlled price."

FERC should act quickly because "cold weather will come before an energy bill" now being considered by House and Senate negotiators, they said.

Lake Ariel man dies in crash

BELVIDERE, N.J. — A Lake Ariel man was killed, his brother was injured and a Stroudsburg man also was hospitalized following a two-car head-on crash early Saturday morning on Rte. 46 in Warren County, New Jersey.

Dead is Edward Butler, 25, of Mount Cobb, Lake Ariel R.D. 3. He was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Lester, 23.

New Jersey state police said the Butler car and a car driven by Clifford Flick, 17, of 2181 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, collided head-on at 1:10 a.m. about two miles east of Belvidere.

Edward Butler was pronounced dead on arrival at Warren County Hospital. His brother was treated at the hospital and then transferred to Allentown Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was listed Sunday in critical condition in the intensive care unit.

Flick was in fair condition Sunday in Warren County Hospital.

Police said they are continuing to investigate the crash.

Specter to toss hat into governor's race

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Arlen Specter, who served as Philadelphia district attorney for eight years, is expected to announce today his candidacy for governor of Pennsylvania.

Besides Specter, the leading Republican gubernatorial candidates are expected to be former U.S. Attorney Richard Thornburgh, House Minority Leader Robert Butera and Senate Majority Leader Henry Hager.

On the Democratic side, the probable leading candidates are Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline, former Auditor General Robert Casey and Auditor General Al Benedict.

Many consider Casey the Democratic favorite and Thornburgh the early favorite in the GOP primary. The Republicans haven't won an important state government election since Raymond Shafer was elected governor in 1966, although two Republicans — H. John Heinz III and Richard Schweiker — were elected to the U.S. Senate.

This is the fourth public office for which Specter has campaigned.

He was elected as a reform candidate for Philadelphia district attorney in 1965 and was favored to beat incumbent Philadelphia Mayor James H.J. Tate in the 1967 mayoral election. Even though Tate had strong opposition within his own party, he beat Specter in a close election.

Specter went back to being district attorney, winning reelection in 1969. He was ousted in 1973 when Democrat F. Emmett Fitzpatrick pulled off a stunning upset.

Mayor Frank Rizzo, a Democrat, had endorsed Specter, and Republican polls had Specter winning by 110,000 votes, but he lost by 28,000. One of the issues in the campaign was the fact that Specter made no secret of his ambition to run for governor in 1974.

No better than 'regular' food

FDA boss puts rap on health food

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health food is no better for you and often more expensive than food available at the supermarket, the head of the Food and Drug Administration said in an interview published Sunday.

Donald Kennedy, noting he hoped to strengthen FDA authority over foods, said "there's not a whit of logic" to suggestions natural foods are better because they have no chemical additives.

"Even if you assume that food additives are generally bad for you," Kennedy told U.S. News and World Report, "it doesn't follow that their absence somehow confers safety."

Aflatoxin, a mold that grows on corn and peanuts, "is as natural as it can be and about the worse carcinogen we know," Kennedy said.

"Natural foods often cost more, but have no benefits that we can see over foods available in the regular marketplace."

Kennedy, a former Stanford University biology professor, said he wants changes in federal food laws "to broaden our authority to insure safe and wholesome products."

Consumers need more adequate information about the nutritional value of food, Kennedy said. The government should "make sure advertising claims (on food) are based on the information contained in the label or cover."

"Nutrition is just as important to health as drug therapy, and if people are better able to guide their own food choices, it would be an enormous boost to public health in terms of preventing some ailments in the first place," he said.

In addition to food, the FDA has a number of products under review, he said, including ingredients in over-the-counter drugs, cosmetics and liquid protein diets.

The agency also is reviewing a petition from Action on Smoking and Health, a public interest group, requesting the FDA to regulate cigarettes as a drug or a medical device. Kennedy indicated the agency probably would not embark on such a course, noting, "the traditional position in our agency . . . has been that Congress did not intend to give us control over tobacco."

Lawmaker charges state overpaid in housing funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than half a million dollars in excess subsidies have been paid to housing construction programs in Pennsylvania by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Rep. Peter H. Kostmeyer, D-Pa., said Sunday.

"Already, somewhere between $500,000 and $1 million have been overpaid and wasted," Kostmeyer said, charging the foulup was largely due to "sloppy administration" by HUD and the state Housing and Finance Agency.

If left unchecked, he estimated, the overpayments could cost American taxpayers $21.6 million over the next 40 years.

The misinterpretation of HUD regulations involved some 21 housing projects throughout the state, the Bucks County democrat said, with the major ones in Pittsburgh, Allentown, Levittown, Derry Township, and Chester.

He plans to make a full listing available along with the excess payments made to the projects at Congressional hearings to be held Tuesday in Lancaster, Pa.

Kostmeyer is a member of the House Governmental Operation Committee's subcommittee on Manpower and Housing. The panel will hold hearings at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Lancaster County Courthouse annex.

Kostmeyer said HUD officials told him the overpayments were due to a misunderstanding of HUD regulations.

Future excess payments are being guarded against by a HUD memo stating that rents could not exceed the legal limit in any case, but the 21 projects receiving excess funds were contracted and received payments before the memo was issued.

Kostmeyer said his staff is investigating the legal possibilities of recovering the overpaid funds.

"It's little wonder that people have lost faith in government," Kostmeyer said. "Our own bureaucrats can't even read the legalese they write into their own regulations. The net result is another sad example of the American taxpayer being ripped off."

Earth Day fades into Sun Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The folks who brought you Earth Day almost eight years ago are preparing for a gala Sun Day on Wednesday next May 3.

"Where Earth Day atoned for the buffalo, the whale and the cutting of the redwoods, Sun Day will be a day of atonement for the Santa Barbara oil spill, the Scotia mine disaster and the near melt down at the Fermi nuclear plant," said Sun Day official Peter Harnick.

While most Sun Day functions are still in the "idea" stage, organizers said the day will start with a sunrise celebration on Cadillac Mountain in Acadia National Park, Maine, where the sun first hits the United States, and move westward with a concert at the United Nations Plaza in New York, clothesline art displays, solar energy exhibits, teach-ins, and political demonstrations.

Boston and Atlanta are preparing solar fairs while a group in Martinsburg, W. Va., plans a solar home tour, organizers said.

"There's even some talk of a national ice cream chain featuring a Sun Day sundae," said Richard Munson, a Sun Day coordinator

Feds look for 'tape' of Hoffa murder

NEW YORK (UPI) — An attorney gunned down in Greenwich Village in a recent gangland-style murder told federal agents he had a tape-recorded account of the killing of Teamster leader Jimmy Hoffa, Time magazine said Sunday.

The news magazine said Gino Gallina "informed the feds that he had hidden a tape-recorded account of the killing that included the voices of mobsters who had a hand in it."

Gallina reportedly said the body of Hoffa, who has been missing for two years and presumably killed in a gangland slaying, could be found from information on the tape.

Time said federal investigators have looked for the tape since the slaying of Gallina, a former assistant district attorney under the late Manhattan DA Frank S. Hogan.

But the magazine said investigators drew a blank at the most likely hiding place — a safe deposit box rented by the 42-year-old attorney under an assumed name.

Gallina, who became a lawyer for reputed Mafia figures after leaving Hogan's office, was shot down on a dark street in Greenwich Village on Nov. 5 and died an hour and a half later with seven bullets in his body.

Gallina had been questioned shortly before his death in connection with a federal grand jury probe into bankruptcy fraud in New Jersey.

Wilbur Mills | Gov. Rhodes | Dennis Kucinich

Who's news

Mills: 'My fault'

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Wilbur Mills, once one of the most powerful men in Congress, says the nation would have a national health program if he had not become an alcoholic. "We would have had a national health program back in 1974," the one-time chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee said during the weekend, "but I was too sick mentally and physically to fight for it. It wasn't the pressure of the job that made me drink," the Arkansas Democrat said. "Alcoholism is a disease." Mills spoke to a civic group to raise money for a half-way house for alcoholics.

Youngest 'n oldest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Mayor-elect Dennis J. Kucinich of Cleveland, one of the youngest big city mayors in the nation, will assume office today. Kucinich, 31, a Democrat, and Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes met during the weekend to discuss urban issues. Rhodes, at 68 the oldest governor in the country, talked about crime, welfare and industrial development. "You are the mayor of a large metropolitan area," Rhodes said. "Go in there and see the man (President Carter). But don't go down there to see the President until you get all your projects lined up."

Talks on food

ROME (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young and U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland arrived Sunday to take part in the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization's conference of member governments. Young and Bergland will address the conference today.

Drouin arrested

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Jude Drouin, center for the New York Islanders professional hockey team, was arrested during the weekend for allegedly spraying a youth with mace. Drouin reportedly pulled over a car carrying a group of college students because he thought the occupants were trying to harass him when they passed his home. He then sprayed one of the passengers with mace, police said. He was charged with possession of a toxic substance and third-degree assault, police said.

Shah's U.S. visit won't be quiet one

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Signs announcing planned demonstrations against the Shah of Iran during his two-day visit this week are plastered on lamp posts, trash cans and buildings all over the federal city.

"Down with the fascist regime of the shah," said one bearing the name of the Federation of Iranian Students in the United States. "Join us in our demonstration against the murderous shah on his U.S. visit"

Others declare the shah to be "Public Enemy No. 1."

But there also was evidence Sunday that demonstrations of public support for Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi were being organized to counter the protestors.

An Air Force spokesman confirmed more than 400 Iranian military personnel, training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas under an aid agreement with Iran, were placed on "leave status" so they could fly to Washington to bolster the Shah's image. He said he did not know who was financing their flight, but it was not the U.S. government.

Anti-shah student groups also claimed the Iranian government was flying in thousands of supporters from Chicago, Los Angeles and California on expense-paid trips.

Metropolian police, National Park Service and Secret Service officials mapped plans to keep hostile factions apart, and the State Department said it would not release the shah's Washington schedule until he arrives in colonial Williamsburg, Va., today on the first leg of his journey.

During a White House visit Tuesday, President Carter is expected to urge the shah to help lower or at least freeze oil prices and to moderate requests for more sophisticated weapons systems in the face of increasing congressional opposition.

The administration regards him as having an important impact on the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Sleeping guard, candles linked to fatal explosion

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — A security guard has admitted he fell asleep after drinking and left candles burning inside a dynamite-loaded freight car that exploded and killed at least 56 persons and injured more than 1,300, investigators said Sunday.

The huge blast Friday night leveled almost all buildings within a 1,000-yard radius of the rail station at Iri in central Korea, digging a crater nearly 50 feet deep and leaving more than 10,000 persons homeless.

Police said Shin Mu-il, 36, admitted that he left the parked freight car filled with 33 tons of dynamite packed in wooden boxes to have a few drinks and fell asleep on his return without extinguishing the candles.

Investigators charged he was drunk.

Officials said he told them he awoke to find his quilt on fire and the freight car filled with fire and smoke. He said he ran from the car, which exploded three or four minutes later.

During initial police questioning, Shin denied any responsibility for the blast and said when he returned from dinner he found the railway car door open and saw fire spreading out of control.

Despite Shin's confession, government authorities said they sought corroborating evidence of his story and would continue to investigate "all possibilities."

Some officials earlier raised the possibility of sabotage by North Korean infiltrators.

President values loneliness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says he has come to value loneliness, and the best chance he has for it is at Camp David, the chief executive's Catoctin Mountain retreat in Maryland.

In an interview with columnist Jack Anderson for Parade Magazine, Carter said he likes to be in crowds and make new friends, but in his life of public prominence he also values solitude.

"Because it is such a rare thing for a president, I kind of hunger after loneliness," he said.

"When I go to Camp David, it is the best opportunity I have. Sometimes I get up very early in the morning ... Rosalynn sleeps until about 8 or 8:30 in the morning. I sit out on the back porch or walk out in the woods by myself. The security men are always in the distance taking care of me, but I feel alone.

"But other than that, I wouldn't think I am a loner," he said.

On another subject, Carter said the three men whose actions or ideas he most admired were his father, Navy Adm. Hyman Rickover and the late President Harry Truman.

Carter supports new plan for jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill setting a national goal to cut the unemployment rate nearly in half in five years is expected to be unveiled formally this week with President Carter's blessing.

The revised "full employment" legislation — which Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., have pushed for two years — results from months of extraordinary negotiations with administration officials.

Normally legislators draft bills as they see fit, sometimes sounding out the White House opinion. Often White House opposition kills the measure.

In this case, to increase chances of enactment, Humphrey and Hawkins sought to fashion a bill President Carter would endorse line by line.

Carter said Thursday at his news conference it was his "expectation" that — after a final review — "the bill will be presented to the Congress with my endorsement."

The revised bill calls for reducing the overall national unemployment rate from 7 percent in October to 4 percent in five years, with a five-year target of 3 percent unemployment of adults 20 and over.

The time period is a half-year longer than an earlier version. The goals are roughly the same as earlier, but sponsors said the new bill makes it clearer that high unemployment rates among teen-agers —17.3 percent for all aged 16 to 19; 37.9 percent for blacks in that age group — also must be addressed.

Doctors, lawyers urge liberalizing 'pot' laws

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Medical Association and the American Bar Association issued a joint appeal to Congress and state legislatures Sunday to repeal criminal penalties for use of marijuana.

The combined appeal on such a sensitive issue, a rarity by two major professional associations, was released by Dr. John H. Budd, AMA president, and William B. Spann, head of the ABA.

"We believe the time has come to liberalize laws regarding the possession of marijuana for personal use," said the five-paragraph statement by the two Chicago-based organizations, both of which previously had urged the lessening of criminal penalties concerning marijuana.

"In too many states, statutes exact punishment that far exceeds the crime. We agree with President Carter, who showed a reasonable attitude in asking that the possession of insignificant amounts for personal use should not subject the user to criminal charges."

The appeal was released as the Senate prepared to consider a committee-approved bill that would eliminate jail terms and the arrest of marijuana users on federal property who carried up to an ounce of pot.

The joint AMA-ABA appeal also urged that state legislatures across the nation move to eliminate criminal penalties as well. Nine states so far have curtailed marijuana penalties while several others have killed such bills.

"Like President Carter, we do not condone the use of marijuana," the statement said. "We do ask, however, for reason and moderation in state as well as federal laws that seek to control its use."

Aliens abusing welfare system

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Abuse of federal welfare payments by aliens in five states alone costs taxpayers more than $72 million a year, the General Accounting Office said Sunday.

The payments are not illegal under current law but occur mostly because Americans who sign affidavits that they will support the aliens as a condition of entry later back down from that pledge.

An aide to Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who released the report, explained: "What's really happening is the (alien) parents of many Americans are being brought in and the children consciously are signing affidavits of support knowing full well they will sign the parent up for welfare. The taxpayer comes out on the losing end of it."

After 30 days in the United States, aliens seeking permanent residence become eligible to receive $177.80 a month in Supplemental Security Income, a federal welfare program for the aged, the blind and the disabled.

In California, New York, Florida, New Jersey and Illinois — the five states surveyed by GAO because they suffered the worst abuse — more than 37,000 aliens collected $72.3 million in SSI payments in 1976.

The dollar amount is probably low because receipt of SSI payments generally makes an alien eligible for Medicaid benefits as well, Percy said.

Percy said he will introduce legislation requiring a five-year residency requirement for SSI eligibility and making sponsors' affidavits promising to support the aliens a legally enforceable contract.

What's news

Philly school loan hearing set

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia School District was to return to court today to seek approval of a $50-million loan it says it needs to continue operating. Common Pleas Court Judge Eugene Gelfand Thursday approved the bank loan but on the condition he first agrees to its terms. Before the loan can be consumated, Gelfand ruled, the school board must tell him how and when it will be repaid and prove it can do so without severely curtailing municipal services or levying further taxes.

LaSala to work for Rizzo

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo today was expected to announce the appointment of former Federal Energy Administrator Joseph A. LaSala as the new city representative and commerce director. Rizzo said last week that he was "99 and nine-tenths percent sure" he would hire LaSala, 53, to replace Albert V. Gaudiosi, a chief mayoral aide who resigned Friday citing personal reasons. LaSala, who resigned the energy job four months ago at the Carter Administration's request, has been a special assistant in the regional office of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The new city job would require LaSala a registered Republican "all of my life," to move into Philadelphia from his 225-year-old house in suburban Nether Providence Township, Delaware County.

Marijuana-laden ship seized

MIAMI (UPI) — The Coast Guard seized a 70-foot freighter laden with an estimated 20 tons of marijuana said to be worth $12 million Sunday and arrested its nine-man crew. The Coast Guard was escorting the mystery freighter, which carried no registration papers, to Florida. The vessel's original destination was uncertain. "It is considered a stateless vessel, not in compliance with international rules and thus we are allowed to board it in international waters even though it may be found to be of foreign registry," Coast Guard spokesman Lance Jones said.

Britain's firemen to strike

LONDON (UPI) — The union leader of Britain's 35,000 firefighters said Sunday his members are nearly unanimous in their decision to strike today. Home Secretary Merlyn Rees Sunday said a nationwide strike would be deplorable. Rees, in a nationally broadcast speech appealing to the British people to be vigilant in a time of great danger, said: "I cannot believe that anyone would allow, for example, children's and old peoples' homes to burn down around their occupants." Fire Brigades Union chief Terry Parry said on the eve of his members' first walkout, "There are very few firemen who do not support the strike."

Rainstorms kill 10 in Europe

LONDON (UPI) — Rainstorms with winds of up to 92 mph struck northern Europe during the weekend, leaving at least 10 persons dead. The storms caused widespread property damage throughout northern England and forced hundreds of families to evacuate their flooded homes. Cross-channel shipping services between Britain and France were disrupted Saturday and temperatures Sunday fell below freezing in northeast England. Among the casualties was a man who was killed when the wind blew him off the sidewalk into a factory basement in Nottingham. Three drivers in Britain also were killed in accidents attributed to high winds.

HUD to simplify forms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — HUD Secretary Patricia Harris has ordered Housing and Urban Development Department employees to simplify department forms, it was announced Sunday. Calling the completion of such forms a "vexing ordeal," HUD officials said in a statement that people dealing with the federal government have "suffered enough from the agonies of filling out forms with boxes and spaces so small as to invite writer's cramp; trying to read type so small you need a microscope, and translating into readable English the technical jargon that seeps into so many of the forms an average citizen is asked to fill out."

Incumbents hold big $$ edge in elections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An incumbent House member running for re-election starts off with more than a half million dollar advantage over challengers, says a study made public Sunday by Americans for Democratic Action.

The ADA analysis includes the congressman's salary, his staff allowance, mailing privileges and office space among advantages the incumbent has — even though they may not be used directly in the campaign.

"The huge advantage accruing to all incumbents over challengers is clearly evidenced by the remarkable staying power of both House and Senate members," the study concluded.

The report said in every House election in the past decade, at least 96 percent of incumbents who sought office were re-elected —except in the post-Watergate upheaval year of 1974 when the figure dropped to 90 percent.

The study said the incumbent gets a $387,984 "advantage" in salaries and office space — primarily from his own $57,500 salary and the $255,144 allowance for a staff of up to 18 persons.

Gelatin lovers given good news by FDA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has just completed an extensive study of that most common of foods, gelatin, and has pronounced it safe.

But the Food and Drug Administration also has decided to propose that gelatin made from certain animal materials — those treated with a potentially dangerous preservative — should not be marketed for use in foods.

The gelatin question arose as part of the FDA's review of all food additives within a legal classification called "generally recognized as safe."

The review process has been going on for years.

Materials in that category were traditionally exempt from challenge, while "new" food additives had to pass certain safety tests before they join the nation's food supply.

Gelatin, the FDA said, "does not occur in nature as such" but is developed from animal tissues.

"Extraction of gelatin for use as a glue by cooking hides dates back to the earliest recorded history of man," it said.

In the United States, gelatin was first manufactured in 1809.

Government causing migration from cities?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government has encouraged migration from the nation's cities through interstate highways, home mortgage policies and other programs, a study released Sunday concluded.

The study, done by the Rand Corporation, also found that "jobs tend to follow people rather than the reverse," thus leading to fewer employment opportunites in urban centers.

The study was described in the current issue of Nation's Cities —magazine of the National League of Cities — by Dr. Mark J. Kasoff, visiting scholar at the Charles F. Kettering Foundation in Dayton, Ohio.

Kasoff said federal policies "have contributed to the decline of central city population and employment," and a migration to suburbs and small towns.

In the 1950s, Kasoff said, the government feared nuclear attacks on urban centers and thought cities were becoming too densely populated, so it took steps to stem the growth.

Thus, federally insured home mortgages became easier to obtain in the suburbs and interstate highways were built to shorten commuting time to the city. Such changes sped flight to the suburbs, the study concluded.

West End wanderings

Hay and other weighty subjects

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter

In my last column, I gave you the West End mathematical formula for determining the amount of corn left in a crib, without counting every ear. Here's a similar equation for estimating the weight of hay.

Again, find the length, depth, and breadth of the hay in feet and multiply these dimensions together. If the hay is on a wagon or is newly stored, divide the product by 540 but if it is well settled in a haystack, divide by 512.

If the hay is baled, 270 cubic feet will weigh a ton.

There were also special formulas for determining the weight of hay that was stored in circular stacks, years ago in the West End. Who said farmers aren't mathematicians?

The Western Pocono Lions Club is now in the process of polling women in the West End to see if there are at least 15 interested enough for the group to begin a local Lionesses group. If you are interested, contact Harrie Blood. You need not be related to a member of the Lions Club to participate in the group.

Here's the latest project from the Pocono Audubon Society that West Enders can participate in. It's called the "Window Watch Winter Bird Count," and if you have a bird feeder, you can help keep tabs on our feathered friends.

The project is under the direction of Don Miller, who will send you an instruction sheet that will tell you what you have to do to keep track of the birds that you spot.

If you'd like to participate, call Don at 424-8312.

Just how gullible are you? Recently a group of people went to a shopping center and approached people asking them to sign a petition seeking a pension for the widow of the Unknown Soldier.

Each of the more than 300 people who were approached were asked to read the petition and then sign it. A total of 80 percent of them signed it, never wondering how you could find the woman of a man who was never identified.

Did you know that the average person inhales 2,600 gallons of air per day? No wonder they call some people a "big bag of wind!"

At one time in the early 1900's there used to be a small rag carpet factory in Kunkletown on Main Street. The small building that once housed it was moved to the rear of one of the properties there and was converted into a wash house.

West Enders were extremely frugal and when a garment of clothing wore out, especially heavily woolen things, they would cut up strips of the fabric to be woven into rag carpet.

Most housewives made their own rag carpet. Women who had enough carpets made (some have lasted a lifetime) would cut up the strips and sell carpet rags to the carpet man when he came house to house. Today some West End women still take carpet strips to a few remaining carpet weavers to have rag carpets made to put down on top of their stairways or as runners in their houses.

Mush time has almost arrived in the West End. What's that, you say, you don't know what I'm talking about? When the winter winds start to blow, all the oldtime West End housewives dig into their crocks of fresh roasted cornmeal and get ready to make sometimes weekly batches of mush.

What made me think about mush time was that I stopped into Altemose's store in Brodheadsville the other day and saw that there were bags of golden-colored corn meal piled up for sale there. If you want to try to make mush and don't know where else to get cornmeal, you can purchase it at Altemose's.

Mush is a hot dish similar to oatmeal that when first cooked is served with milk or cream like a hot breakfast cereal. But that's not the best way to eat it. West Enders actually make large batches of mush and pour it into shallow pans. They keep it refrigerated and throughout the week, take small slices out of the pan (the slices are about a half inch thick). Then they fry it to a delicate brown color and serve it with butter or syrup poured over the top.

Here's the recipe for a batch of mush.

Take one cup of cornmeal, add one teaspoon of salt. Add one cup of cold water gradually to make a paste. Then pour this into four cups of boiling water and boil for 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Cover and cook in a double boiler from three to five hours (that's how long it takes to make real mush), stirring occasionally. More boiling water may be added if necessary. Serve with milk or cream and/or sugar.

LOW BACK PAIN
Dr. Thomas F. Snyder D.C.

At one time or another in nearly everyone's life, back pains are felt. Pain in the back is common among people of occupations which submit the back to extra strain. The tense position of a secretary's job or the job of a person lifting heavy objects — or even the drudgery of ordinary house work, may all contribute to conditions that produce back pains.

A good healthy back can withstand life's demands, however, slight displacements of the spinal vertebrae, easily recognized by the doctor of chiropractic, can cause pressure on nerves, creating malfunction of the tendons, ligaments and muscles of the back.

When this condition exists, even ordinary daily life, with no over-exertion, can cause low back pain; then a chiropractic examination is essential.

Regional wrap-up

Open houses planned

BRODHEADSVILLE — Open house at Pleasant Valley High School will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. tonight and from 2:35 to 6:10 p.m. Wednesday.

The program both days will consist of individually scheduled conferences between parents and faculty members. The conferences have been set up in advance.

The Pleasant Valley High School Senior Chorus will be hosting a tea-Tupperware party and bake sale during the two conference days.

All proceeds will be used for the chorus' production of their spring musical, "Fiddler on the Roof." Coffee and tea will be served without charge in the foyer of the building. All visitors are welcome to attend.

Bangor open

BANGOR — Any parent who wishes to make an appointment for open house on Tuesday, Nov. 15 at the Bangor Area Junior High School may do so. The number to call is 588-2105.

These appointments may be made with any teacher, guidance counselor or administrator in the school. The time for open house will be 7 to 9 p.m. that day.

Pike PTA

MILFORD — The Milford-Dingman PTA will meet at the Milford Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

After a brief business meeting and a speech by Glenda Hodgson, librarian, on library services for the children, parents will have an opportunity to examine and purchase books at the annual book fair.

In addition, teachers for each grade will be presenting their basic goals and objectives for the year.

All parents are invited.

Arts meeting

WILKES-BARRE — The Northeastern Pennsylvania Arts Alliance dinner meeting will be held on Nov. 15 at the Sterling Inn, Wilkes-Barre, to discuss grants received by the Arts Alliance from the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts and to view a sample of regional professional artistry.

The three separate grants received by the Arts Alliance will assist in the costs of area traveling exhibitions and performances entitled "The Arts on the Go" for the 1977-78 season.

The evening's agenda will consist of a cash bar open at 6 p.m., followed by a buffet at 7 p.m., and the meeting at 8 p.m.

The short performance program for the meeting will represent four counties: Luzerne, Josia Mieszkowski, ballet; Lackawanna, Norbert Betti, opera; Monroe, Sami Behar, drama, and Carbon, Jane Mitchell, art.

Anyone interested in attending may contact Murray Popky, president of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Arts Alliance, at the Sterling Hotel, Wilkes-Barre, or phone (717) 822-3131. Cost of the dinner is $7 per person.

Bird talk

BLAIRSTOWN, N.J. — Michael Hannisian, a local resident and licensed birdbander, will be the guest speaker at the Thursday, Nov. 17 meeting of the Sierra Club Chapter of Northwest New Jersey. The meeting is at 8 p.m. at Blair Academy.

Hannisian is president of the Montclair Bird Club, the oldest bird club in New Jersey, and a member of the Urner Ornithological Club. He also teaches courses about birds at the Morris Museum of Arts and Sciences.

The public is invited to hear Hannisian's talk and to meet with Sierra Club members for refreshments afterwards.

My sincere Gratitude to all the people who voted for me, and especially those who dedicated their time and effort in my behalf.

Pike County ag agent honored for long service

MILFORD — Pike County agent Joe Staley retired this year and was guest of the Penn State University's Administrators and Specialists at a luncheon in his honor. While there, he received the symbolic Penn State Nittany Lion.

Staley was a faculty member of the university for 31 years. He served two years in the 4-H Youth Program in Lackawanna and Wayne Counties until he was assigned full-time to Wayne County in 1948. He was later assigned as County Director of Extension, Pike County, in 1957.

When Staley came to Pike County, the broiler industry, the largest in the state, was being phased out, necessitating a change in extension programming. The changes were dictated by the Tocks Island Dam Proposal, construction of Interstate 84 and the sudden real estate development in the county.

Always a resort area, Pike County was being rediscovered. Second home developments were springing up in all parts of the county. Without controls of any kind, Staley felt problems caused by growth were inevitable.

To meet the problems, a community planning and resource development program was initiated by the extension service in 1960.

It cooperated with the Pike County Planning Commission and other organizations, agencies, public officials and interested county residents.

The step-by-step progression of this program has been recorded in a book titled, "A Review of Pike County's Educational Program to meet Growth and Change." This history of Pike County's approach to planning is a tribute to Staley's foresight and initiative, according to the extension service. "It is a legacy to the county and a record which will be difficult to match," a service spokesman said.

"Fortunately, Joe Staley's expertise in planning and resource development will not be lost," the spokesman said. He is now a member of the county planning commission. The planning commission, since its beginning, has worked closely with extension in co-sponsoring projects and acts as a clearing house for county problems and establishing priorities.

"Joe Staley's retirement from the Pike County Extension Service leaves a void which will be hard to fill. His low-key approach, his ability to relate to people and their needs, built a firm foundation on which was based a successful educational community resource development program," according to the spokesman.

Portland considers budget

PORTLAND — Portland Borough Council has proposed a budget for 1978 that would increase the real estate tax by one mill.

The tax rate would rise from 14 to 15 mills under the plan.

The proposed budget is about $4,000 higher than the current year's. Council is planning to set aside more money next year for repair and maintenance of the municipal building and for street improvements.

Other taxes would remain the same.

The budget is available for review at the home of borough Secretary Jack Bellis. Council plans to adopt the budget on Dec. 5.

In other business, council appointed Daniel Wilkins to the borough planning commission.

Academic scholarship awarded

GRANTHAM, Pa. — Beth Ann Holmberg, daughter of Elvin and Martha Homberg, Blakeslee, a freshman at Messiah College, has been awarded an academic scholarship for this year.

A graduate of Pocono Mountain High School, Miss Holmberg is majoring in Music Education.

Messiah College is a Christian liberal arts college with its main campus 11 miles southwest of Harrisburg. The urban campus is in Philadelphia, adjoining Temple University.

Emergency services lauded this week

HARRISBURG — Governor Milton Shapp has proclaimed November 12-19 as Emergency Medical Services Week, according to the Pennsylvania Emergency Health Services Council.

This week is designed to recognize and encourage all citizens, public officials, public safety agencies, emergency medical technicians, paramedics, fire departments, physicians, nurses, and other EMS workers to continue to upgrade and provide quality EMS services to the public year round.

Richard S. Evans, M.D., president of the Pennsylvania Emergency Health Services Council said, "We are pleased that the governor has again recognized the importance of quality emergency care. The Pennsylvania Emergency Health Services Council joins with the governor in commending those who are now working to provide improved emergency medical care."

Pennsylvania is one of 30 states joining the American Association of Trauma Specialists (AATS) in declaring this week to be one of honor for all emergency medical services participants.

In accordance with the "Emergency Medical Services Systems Act" of 1976, the council, in cooperation with the Division of Emergency Health Services, Department of Health, and 11 regional EMS Councils throughout the Commonwealth is continually working toward Emergency Medical Services Systems that provide prompt, efficient, and quality care for all residents in the Commonwealth, a council spokesman said.

The state government and state agencies can do much to encourage better emergency care, Evans said, "but the real key is the continued participation by volunteers and professionals on the regional and local level.

Payday for constables depended on arrests

STROUDSBURG — For destroying Canada thistles growing in a landlord's field, a constable in 1924 received 50 cents in payment, plus 6 cents a mile. If it took him a day's labor, he could also charge $2.50 in costs.

For arresting a vagrant, a constable received $1 but in an arrest of an "incorrigible child," the fee was only 50 cents.

General arrests for crimes amounted to fees of $1 per person and a $5 fee was paid for attending an election. A constable received 75 cents for delivering a child to juvenile court plus 3 cents for each child delivered. The mileage, if it amounted to more than seven miles, was estimated at 5 cents.

Prosecution and conviction of a violation of either fish and game laws could net the constable a big sum of $10 for each violator. He received 2 cents each for finding jurors and $3 for attending soliders' encampments at the request at the commanding officer. For serving a general summons, the fee was 50 cents.

U.S. RIGHT TO DEFEND PANAMA CANAL — Terms should be spelled out — specifically and clearly. It is logical and persuasive that the treaty should not remain ambiguous, permitting different interpretations. Good argument isn't the only reason. We have experience to cause us to be wary.

When the four Allied zones were established in Germany after World War II, Berlin, deep in the Soviet zone, was to be governed jointly. The Russians assured us that access would present no difficulty.

But it wasn't put in writing. Before long the Soviets denied us access to Berlin and in the end we had to break through with the airlift.

That should be a lesson to us. Get it in writing — as a condition of ratifying the treaty.

PUBLIC FINANCING OF CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS — Many — perhaps most — congressmen oppose public financing. There is one powerful reason. The present system favors incumbents and makes it more difficult for challengers. It helps incumbents remain in office.

The fact is that campaign funds flow freely to sitting congressmen. On the average, they spend twice as much as challengers. They have the advantages of name recognition, established fund-raising resources and many prerequisites of office not available to challengers, such as staff, travel and newsletter allowances — all paid by the government.

WOMEN AND THEIR MONEY — Kathryn Welling in Barron's: "A glance at a few statistics makes it abundantly clear that there's every reason for women to take a lively personal interest in money matters. There are nearly 39 million working women in the U.S., over 42 per cent of whom are heads of households and thus responsible for the financial decisions. In addition, the New York Stock Exchange figures that 11,750,000 women who own stock represent over 50 per cent of the nation's shareholders."

CARTER AND HIS BALANCED BUDGET — He promised to balance it by 1980. There were no qualifications. If he looks at the trend of the national debt from 1910 to last week, he will realize that he needs to begin soon if he hopes to turn things around.

The national debt in 1910 was $1 billion.

The national debt today is more than $700 billion.

It remained at $1 billion until 1916. It mounted to $24 billion during World War I. It kept going up during the New Deal and reached $256 billion during World War II.

The national debt dropped minutely once during the Truman Administration and once during the Eisenhower Administration. It has continued to zoom ever since.

Carter's deficit next year will undoubtedly be more than the one he inherited from Ford.

Bandwagon needs explaining

Foes of the moribund plan to build a dam across the Delaware River are swarming aboard the latest panacean bandwagon to come along — force-fitting the stretch of river from Port Jervis, N.Y., to Delaware Water Gap into the Wild and Scenic River System.

Desperate as they are to insure that there will never, ever be an opportunity to build a dam on the Delaware, proponents of the scenic river move have confessed in private that they don't really know what the ultimate effect of placing the mid-Delaware into the protected system will be. But they aren't worrying about that at the moment, it seems. Block any possibility of a dam, and at all costs — that's the plan for the moment. And we'll deal with any problems that crop up later.

The interesting thing about this latest passion is that, but for Monroe County Commissioner Nancy Shukaitis, those pushing the plan most fervidly have no official responsibility to the area their scheme will affect, perhaps forever, in the way it will develop and be able to provide for future generations.

Including the middle reaches of the Delaware River into the Wild and Scenic River System may be totally advantageous. But if that is so, no one knows it for certain at this point.

The only reasonable and fair way to approach this vital decision for the 100,000 or so permanent residents of the area affected is to prepare an environmental impact statement. Such a statement is required before an area is developed. One should be required if an area is to be forcibly rendered undevelopable. Barring legitimate and reasonable development can be as traumatic to the existence and viability of an area as development — as long as people, human beings, are also considered.

The usual environmental impact statement takes little notice of how a given action will affect people, unless those people happen to be "primitives" whose quaint existence is desirable of protection, mostly for the satisfaction of the self-styled protectors. If the protectors want to stick the Delaware River and Valley into the historical deep-freeze, they should file a statement showing how that action would affect the economic and social well-being of the area and its human inhabitants. Then they can make that statement public and we can have open hearings and forums on it, and maybe even a cost-benefit ratio can be computed, with the costs estimated in lost jobs, stagnant population and withering economy.

Local officials, who have stepped only timidly into the waters of exclusion this time, should come out publicly in favor of such an environmental impact statement. Only then will we be taking drastic and fundamental measures with our future armed with the information needed to make such a move reasonable and humane.

China, Russia arm Rhodesian guerrillas

Jack Anderson
With LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union and China are secretly shipping weapons to black Rhodesian guerrillas in an effort to gain new influences in wartorn Africa.

The tenacious guerrillas are fighting Rhodesia's white minority government from bases in Mozambique, across the country's eastern border, and Zambia, to the north. They are waging their hit-and-run war with light weapons, such as rifles, mines and plastique bombs, which, according to U.S. Government sources, are being provided by the Soviets and Chinese.

The communist weapons are shipped by freighter to the official military forces of Mozambique and nearby Tanzania. Some of the arms are siphoned off by those countries, according to competent sources, and the rest are trucked to the guerrilla bases.

The nationalists, split by a power struggle, nevertheless fight for the united cause of displacing the white Rhodesian regime. The two main factions don't receive the same weapons, our sources said. Peking sends the bulk of its support to the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU), while the Kremlin ships its arms to both the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU) and the ZANU.

Neither group wants to be beholden to the superpowers. But the United States, the Soviet Union and Red China are in hot pursuit of African allies.

However, government sources told us that the United States is not sending military supplies to either faction in Rhodesia. The Carter administration doesn't want to get caught up in an African arms race with the communists.

But neither can the United States afford the diplomatic losses that would follow a bloody racial war in Rhodesia that is fought and won with communist weapons. The administration, therefore, is desperately trying to convince the obstinate Rhodesian prime minister, Ian Smith, to transfer power peacefully from Rhodesia's 270,000 whites to its six million blacks.

Meanwhile, the Soviets have concluded that providing weapons is the way to win friends and influence countries in Africa. The Kremlin has enjoyed recent successes in Angola, where it backed the winning side in a civil war, and in Mozambique, where it has displaced Peking as the major communist mentor.

But if our peace-keeping efforts fail and a full-scale war does break out in Rhodesia, the United States will not become involved militarily, according to reliable sources.

Some white Rhodesians prefer an escalated war, naively believing that the United States and Britain would come to their rescue against a communist-supported conflict. But U.S. analysts consider this an unlikely possibility.

Moscow, also, would prefer a destructive war, fought with Russian tanks and MIG jet fighters. The Chinese could not match the quality of the Soviet weapons; therefore, the Kremlin would likely emerge as the closest ally of the black guerrillas, should they be victorious.

Footnote; Our sources warned that Cuban troops are standing by to support the guerrillas, as they did in Angola.

Georgia girl: Despite complaints that he is filling his administration with too many Georgians, President Carter plans to bring still another resident of his home state to the Capital. This time, Carter wants Omi Walden, the head of the Georgia Energy Department, to become the new Department of Energy's assistant secretary for conservation and solar applications.

Some energy experts are groaning that Carter should find someone with more experience than Walden. But solar energy advocates say she would be an excellent choice because she worked for Carter when he was governor and is close to him. They hope this relationship will help produce more dollars for solar research.

Carter reportedly picked Walden in order to ease the criticism that he hasn't appointed enough women to his administration. But he certainly can't be faulted for not picking enough Georgians.

Footnote: Walden confirmed that she's been offered the job. As for her experience, she says she is proud of Georgia's record on conservation and solar energy.

Washington whirl: Transportation Secretary Brock Adams recently dispatched a five-man delegation to Tokyo to ask the Japanese to install air bags in the Toyotas, Datsuns and other cars they export to the United States. Adams reportedly hopes the Japanese will set an example for U.S. manufacturers by installing the air bags before the 1981 deadline set by Congress.

He recently testified before a House subcommittee and opposed tighter federal regulations of banks, a position most bankers would naturally agree with. But when another subcommittee sought Heimann's views on banking abuses, he politely begged off. He explained that he didn't know enough about the matter.

The secret world of Richard Helms

Nicholas Von Hoffman

WASHINGTON — The sentencing of Richard Helms ended a judicial episode of more than ordinary cynicism. The former CIA director pleaded nolo contendere for failing to testify "fully and accurately" to a Senate committee about his Agency's doings in Chile. Laymen call this committing perjury, but laymen call many things names lawyers would never use.

Helms' mouthpiece, Edward Bennett Williams, told the judge in pleading for no time behind bars for his notorious client that this fallen angel of episonage and subversion would "bear the scar of a conviction for the rest of his life." Immediately upon getting leniency for Helms, who is unfortunate in looking like the twitchy jawed CIA killer of our nightmares, Williams said, "He'll wear it like a banner because he did what he was required to do by the oaths he took when he was director of Central Intelligence."

Helms, with what can be described as a mud-eating grin on his dour puss, concurred, "I don't feel disgraced at all. I think if I had done anything else, I would have been disgraced." Upper-class Edward G. Robinson — Helms was born into WASP money — doing the Main Line equivalent of the Little Caesar snarl: "You coppers'll never get me."

Unable to think?

This is a man who did his lying or failing to be full and accurate for the good of the country and for the good of the Agency, or so his partisans say. But if he had the Agency's interest at heart, why stand on the courthouse steps and say things which will only rekindle the fear and animus so many people bear the CIA? It was stupid, but apparently these types who kill for their country, lie for their country, blackmail for their country can't think for their country.

Helms has the right tailor, the right club memberships, invitations to the right Washington parties and that swift self-assurance which goes with being so right. Unhappily that swift self-assurance is frequently mistaken for intelligence and competence. The children of rich people are often so polished and shined and buffed that they slide into high places on the smoothness of their veneer. When other kids worked after high school to help keep the family in beans, Helms was going to school in Switzerland learning French, German and gentleman's manners.

A smarter or a humbler man would not have behaved as he did before the Senate. No witness, distantly connected with national security, has ever been asked to spill state secrets there. All such a witness has to say is, "Senators, I've got a chicken bone stuck in my throat," and they immediately go into executive or secret session.

Evidently Helms has been playing 007 for so long — the man joined the CIA in 1947 — that he couldn't grasp that you can lie to the Senate under oath, but not when what you're saying is so obviously untrue your listeners splutter. Whether his was the arrogance of power or the arrogance of stupidity, he won himself his badge of honor — a $2,000 fine and two years in prison suspended — when he humiliated Congress by telling a transparent untruth. Everybody in Washington and everybody in Santiago de Chile knew the CIA was intriguing to keep the Marxist Allende out of power.

The judge gave Helms a talking-to. "You now stand before this court in disgrace and shame," he told the highly unrepentent Helms.

No time for pantywaists

Helms must have thought the judge was either a child or an official hypocrite reciting verbal formulae demanded of him by legalists, pantywaists and other dreamers who don't know what the real world of NKVD is like. The real world of the Agency which Helms headed is poisoning, bribery, assassinations, druggings, prostitutes and obstructing justice by destroying files in the Watergate case. The CIA's Bad Deeds Division so resembled organized crime it recruited the Mafia as an ally. No wonder Helms started laughing at the judge almost before he was out of the courtroom.

Out-of-warranty vs. in-warranty costs

Sylvia Porter

Why does it cost so much to have your older, out-of-warranty TV set, hi-fi, radio or tape recorder repaired?

Claim many repair shops: because they are forced to overcharge the cash-paying customer to make up the losses they incur repairing newer products still under manufacturers' warranties.

Argue service dealers the nation over: because they are compelled to sign warranty service contracts with many manufacturers who pay them less than the actual cost of the repair work. Thus, merely to stay in business, many dealers must raise their prices to you, owner of out-of-warranty goods. You, this type of customer, in short, most not only make up the difference on what the repair shop loses from its in-warranty service but also must pick up the tab for the shop owner's profit.

Explains Harry Midkiff, executive director of the California State Electronics Assn. (a service dealers trade association), many electronics manufacturers pay only about one-third of the service dealer's cost of doing repairs, not including any profit.

If, say, a repairman fixes a TV set that is still under warranty at a cost to him of $15, the manufacturer might reimburse him with only $5. To make up his loss, he will add the $10 difference plus some figure for profit to the bill of a customer with an older TV set. You, that customer, subsidize the repairs done under warranty.

Service dealers try to make up their losses from warranty work in other ways as well, according to warranty experts. Those who are also retailers raise the purchase price of new TV sets, radios, etc. Those who only service products sometimes assign warranty repair jobs to their least experienced and thus least costly repairmen.

The rates of these least experienced repairmen will be closest to the amounts the dealer gets as reimbursement from the manufacturer. The result: you, the consumer, may get poor repair work and be pushed into repeated trips to the repair shop.

Some service shops feel, too, that they are paid so little that they may at times submit false warranty claims to manufacturers.

"It's a nasty game," an attorney specializing in the warranty field told my Washington associate, Brooke Shearer. "Manufacturers feel their rates are justified because of the volume of business they provide service dealers. The dealers' attitudes are the opposite.

"This problem of repair rate parity has also plagued the automobile industry for a long time."

Federal law

Federal warranty law contains a provision implicitly requiring manufacturers "to make reasonable arrangements" for compensating their authorized service agents for warranty work — but the language of the law is vague, the provision lacks enforcement tools.

To fill this loophole, some 20 states have enacted varying laws designed to make manufacturers pay more for warranty repairs. Some states such as New Jersey and Vermont recently passed laws applying only to the automobile industry.

The Vermont law, effective this past July 1, is currently the basis for a suit being brought by a large local auto dealer against American Motors Corp.

Other states, such as Rhode Island, have passed broader statutes, requiring all manufacturers who offer written warranties to pay the same price for repairs as the customer with an out-of-warranty now pays. As a result of this law — which became effective this past May — one of the state's largest electronics service dealers already has cut its rates by roughly 30 per cent across the board.

California has had a law on the books since 1972 requiring fair price service contracts. There, the state legislature has given California's attorney general the authority to prosecute violators of its Song-Beverly Act. A result is that service dealers expect the law to be actively enforced.

In the meantime, two California TV service shop owners have filed anti-trust suits. One is charging a group of leading American electronics manufacturers with unfair competition under state law. The other is bringing suit against some offshore manufacturers under federal law.

The cases are due to come to court in 1978. The whole area of in-warranty and out-of-warranty service costs is in an uproar — from which we, the customers, are likely to benefit.

Fem-lib backlash

More than 2,000 women will gather in Houston Nov. 18-21 for the National Women's Conference. The conference is being held by congressional mandate, funded by federal tax dollars and organized by the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year. Delegates to the conference will vote on recommendations for eliminating the remaining barriers to women's equality in American society. Their report will be submitted to the President and to Congress by March 1978.

Many of the proposed recommendations emerged from public meetings held since last February in each state and territory. These sessions frequently produced emotional confrontations over such issues as the equal rights amendment, abortion and homosexual rights. Similar confrontations are expected in Houston.

The acrimony among the delegates to the women's conference underlines the fact that Americans as a whole remain deeply divided over the role of women in society. Over 56 percent of American women aged 20 to 64 work outside the home. Yet a nationwide survey conducted last year found that the overwhelming majority of American parents — including three-fourths of the working mothers interviewed — believe that women with small children should not work unless the money is really needed. Nearly 70 percent of the parents said that children were better off when their mothers did not work.

According to the National Assessment of Educational Progress, nearly 70 percent of the nation's 17-year-olds believe that a woman's place is in the home. Another 20 percent said that women should be allowed to work only under certain conditions, for instance, if they did not have children.

The public's ambivalence about the women's movement was made clear by the results of an April 1977 Harris poll. On the one hand, the poll showed that between 1970 and 1977 the number of Americans favoring "efforts to strengthen and change women's status is society today" grew from 42 to 64 percent. On the other hand, the poll showed a sharp drop in the proportion of those favoring passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. Between 1976 and 1977 the number of Americans favoring passage dropped from 65 to 56 percent.

The equal rights amendment is expected to be one of the most hotly debated topics at the Houston conference. Opponents argue that its passage would end alimony and child support, would require military conscription for women, would ban separate washrooms for men and women and permit homosexual marriages.

Feminists dismiss such arguments as ridiculous. Yet anxieties run deep, and ERA advocates have found their ratification drive stalled at 35 states — three short of the number needed for ratification.

Congress is now considering a bill introduced by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman (D. N.Y.) that would extend the ratification deadline from March 1979 to 1986. Phyllis Schlafly, leader of the anti-ERA forces, calls the extension effort "an act of desperation" and says she will fight it through lobbying and in court.

"It's illegal and unfair," she said. "It's like a losing football team demanding that a fifth quarter be played. You can't change the rules in the middle of the game just because you're losing." Even if Congress passes the legislation, there's no guarantee that women's rights advocates will be able to muster enough support to ratify the amendment in three more states.

Politics doesn't mix

By ALAN GOULD Jr.

One of the many incidents that were a part of this year's local judicial campaign involved The Pocono Record's policy for employes.

We do not want any of our people in public office or involved in partisan politics and we specifically forbid this for those who work on the news side.

In this case Norm Lehde, a respected veteran reporter in Milford, whom we hired as a stringer several years ago for $17 per week, columnized a couple of times in early September about the judicial campaign. What he wrote didn't come out favorably for Tommy Thomson, the Republican candidate.

That was okay with us until as a local Thomson supporter mentioned one day: "Hey, do you know your Pike columnist is Democratic Party treasurer?"

That was followed by a letter from candidate Thomson wondering about the propriety of Lehde being a Democrat official and his wife being chairman of the Pike committee for Pete O'Brien, Thomson's rival. We published Thomson's letter and at the same time announced the Lehde column was being discontinued.

It was really our own fault, down here at The Record where most of us spend most of our time. It was no secret in Milford that Norm was involved with the Democrats, perennial underdogs in Pike politics. But stupid as it sounds, we didn't know it at the newspaper.

To Thomson's credit, he has since called us asking that we reinstate Norm, but our policy was explained. And as a matter of fact, to Norm Lehde's credit, over the years he's contributed to The Record, it has hardly been obvious that he was promoting either party in his generally whimsical column.

We don't doubt he has tried to be fair, he's that kind of person. But the fact is that a potential abuse of news impartiality in our business can be almost as damaging as the real thing. No two people read a given story the same way. If they have a hunch a reporter may be biased, they'll find bias even where none exists.

Our rule that news guys and gals stay out of politics is not universal among newspapers. In fact, if you assume that all those in politics and all those in newspapering are honorable, you can make a case of sorts for the two working together to accomplish good things for the community. However, that's tough assuming.

More and more newspapers are escaping party ties and opting for independent status that gives editorialists complete freedom and eliminates the suspicion for bias from reporters. Dandy.

The trend is healthy from the standpoint of newspaper credibility as well as the most obvious: a community is more likely to prosper and progress if its newspaper is able to make independent judgments and help people work together than if its role is dictated by political allegiance.

Not much more than half a century ago newspapers were founded and subsidized in Monroe County by political parties. Their purpose was to promote the party line and candidates. Any mention of the "other" party was derogatory. In those days there was no credibility in political stories. The saving grace is that most understood it.

Things have changed but even in the early years of present ownership it was considered good community relations and civic duty to serve in non-pay government. We have had people on planning boards and borough councils.

No more. We want to be free to comment without conflict with colleagues and without charges, warranted or not, that favoritism is shown on any basis other than good judgment and justice.

This doesn't mean our judgment always turns out to be correct or popular nor does it mean we don't take sides. But our intentions are good, our conscience should be clear and its important for readers to believe that imperfect people such as we are at least striving for that journalistic perfection.

Pa. budget — problem won't go away

By STEPHEN E. DRACHLER
Ottaway News Service
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Budget, budget, budget. You've got to be tired of reading about budgets.

But like that pesky facial pimple that just won't go away, neither will Pennsylvania's budget. It is still here, a blemish on the face of the legislature.

The legislature returns to Harrisburg this week, once again to try to untangle the complicated funding issue.

We've yet to see a vote in either the House or Senate on anything resembling a viable solution for providing the $300 million needed for state-related institutions and universities.

The institutions all the while, however, have had to resort to borrowing millions of dollars to replace funds which ordinarily would have come from Harrisburg.

For Penn State, Temple University and the University of Pittsburgh, the situation has become quite uncomfortable. They are borrowing and paying thousands of dollars a day in interest charges.

One can debate at length the issue of whether or not the state should be subsidizing these universities. Some say the subsidies should instead go to students, so all Pennsylvania college students can gain the benefits, not just the ones at the heavily subsidized schools.

But that is not the issue. And should not be now.

It is agreed the institutions need the money and should get it. The question is now, how is the state going to raise the money? Will the legislature increase taxes or will it cut the $5.1 billion budget it passed in August to provide the grants for the colleges and institutions?

The legislature does not have the answer.

Dozens of legislators think they have the answer. But it has been shown to be a nearly impossible, well, impossible to this point, task to round up enough votes to either pass taxes or make cuts in the budget. There are Democratic proposals, Republican proposals and bi-partisan proposals. Each, however, comes up a few votes short of passage.

If, by chance the House passed a funding plan this week, it would have to go to the Senate. There are no guarantees the Senate would agree. The Senate could attempt a solution, but it would have to go back to the House. Same situation.

And, God forbid, if the two legislative bodies agreed and sent something to the governor for his signature, there are no guarantees he would sign the legislation.

Gov. Milton Shapp has, in fact, thrown his own monkey wrench into the morass; by threatening to veto any cuts of the budget, contending that a tax increase is needed.

It takes 134 votes in the House and 34 in the Senate to override a gubernatorial veto. If both chambers cannot obtain a constitutional majority of 102 and 26, respectively, doesn't that make the chances of finding enough votes to override a Shapp veto about nil?

And soon, you have to remember, legislators will have to make decisions and announcements about re-election plans for next year. The primary election is about five months away.

Which brings us to the final contention. How will the voters react next May and November to what's been happening in Harrisburg since January?

To speculate on that would be ridiculous, like saying the House and Senate would solve the budget crisis this week.

Property tax phaseout no joke

By SHARON SEXTON

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Property taxes. Dull writing, dull reading, dull subject.

But if you own property or not, if you have children or are childless, if you are a senior citizen or a newlywed, if you own a business or work for one, you should read on.

After years of complaining about the inequities of property taxes, the Senate is seriously considering a proposal to abolish them and tax Pennsylvanians solely on the basis of their income.

For some, the proposed phase out of the property taxes you pay to local school districts could involve a tax break.

For others, the cure could be worse than the disease.

Sen. John Stauffer, a Chester County Republican, has been working for five years on a plan to revamp Pennsylvania property taxes. This year, for three reasons, the proposal is receiving serious attention.

First, many Democrats in the Senate have co-sponsored the Stauffer bills.

And, Senate Republicans have threatened to withhold support for a budget compromise unless the bills win approval. Senate Democrats say they can't end the budget struggle without Republican support.

The Senate GOP leaders also say the plan could produce a one-time windfall of $100 million this year that could help solve the budget crisis.

The plan

On the surface, Stauffer's idea looks like a debt consolidation plan similar to those advertised by finance companies:

Eliminate the property taxes Pennsylvanians pay to local school districts and make up the lost revenue by increasing state personal income and business taxes. Instead of two medium-sized bills, you pay one big one.

But the Stauffer proposal is a much more complex restructuring of the state tax structure with ramifications for business, school districts and taxpayers.

The plan would phase out millions of dollars in property taxes to local school districts by 1981 and make up the difference by:

— increasing the state personal income tax from 2 to 3 percent by 1981 and by authorizing school districts to levy their own 3 percent income tax. All the money would be collected by the state.

— increasing the state's contribution to public schools costs from 50 to 80 percent.

— levying a new state gross receipts tax on unincorporated businesses, including doctors, lawyers and other professionals.

— increasing a variety of business taxes, including those on capital stock, bank shares and insurance premiums.

Who wins, who loses

The Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce has complained the plan would tax businesses out of business. But Stauffer says it is an equitable solution to a system riddled with inequalities.

"They (the Chamber) tried to make it look devastating to business, but the idea is to be evenhanded with everyone," Stauffer said.

"If someone has been the beneficiary under the system we have now, then he is going to pay more. If someone is especially hard-hit under the present system, then he will get a break. We all have to pay our fair share."

Stauffer says Pennsylvanians who are property-wealthy but dollar-poor will get a break under the plan — an elderly couple with a large home, for example.

Persons who are property-poor but dollar-wealthy will pay more taxes than they do now. For instance, couples with high incomes who are renters.

According to Stauffer and others, the current tax system penalizes senior citizens and young couples who either can't afford to keep their homes or can't afford to buy new homes because of property taxes.

They also say the taxes, coupled with lax assessment practices in many communities, have created serious instability in the Pennsylvania economy.

The plan will probably be unpopular with school boards that fear an increase in the state's contribution to education will mean a decrease in their autonomy.

Although the Stauffer plan enjoys bipartisan support, it will face a rough road in the General Assembly.

Somalia breaks Soviet ties; kicks out Russian advisers

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Somalia Sunday renounced its friendship treaty with Moscow, ordered all Soviet advisers out of the country, including those running a base for Soviet nuclear submarines in the Indian Ocean, and announced a full diplomatic break with Cuba.

The special announcement on Mogadishu Radio fell only one step short of a full break in diplomatic relations between Somalia and the Soviet Union.

Somalia said its severing of diplomatic ties with Cuba was due to the "hostile posture" of the Havana government. Somali President Siad Barre has said up to 15,000 Cuban troops are fighting alongside the Ethiopians in the Ogaden Desert war in southeast Ethiopia, a charge Ethiopia denies.

All Cuban embassy personnel were ordered to leave the country within 48 hours. A reduction in the embassy staffs of Somalia in Moscow and the Soviet Union in Magadishu also was ordered.

The announcement, which broke into regular radio programs, followed an emergency 19-hour meeting of the central committee of the ruling Somali Socialist Party.

It came after months of deteriorating relations between the two former close allies sparked by the Soviets' decision to re-equip the armed forces of neighboring Ethiopia.

When fighting flared between Ethiopian government troops and Somali forces in southeast Ethiopia in June, Moscow accused Somalia of starting the war.

Three months ago, the Soviet Union cut off all further supplies of weapons and spare parts to the 20,000-strong Somali armed forces, which have been exclusively equipped by Moscow.

The radio announcement said all Soviet experts would be withdrawn within seven days and all Soviet naval and air facilities in Somalia closed.

The Soviets have built an extensive naval facility at the northern Somali port of Berbera to resupply and communicate with their nuclear submarines operating in the Indian Ocean.

They also were reportedly developing the southern Somalia port of Kisimaio for a similar purpose.

Soviet experts operate several airfields throughout the country, which also were used by Soviet aircraft.

Some 6,000 Soviet experts were in Somalia at the time of the announcement. They included both military advisers with the Somali armed forces and civilian technicians.

South Africa under fire again in U.N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — South Africa, No. 1 whipping boy of the United Nations this year, is coming under fire yet again starting today — this time in the General Assembly, for its apartheid policies.

The 149-nation Assembly will open this morning what shapes up to be a lengthy debate and, according to diplomatic sources, it will include calls for an oil and investments embargo and other economic sanctions against South African Prime Minister John Vorster's government.

South Africa already is under a global arms embargo, imposed earlier this month by the U.N. Security Council — the first member state to be so punished in the 32-year history of the United Nations.

That embargo is mandatory — meaning all 148 other U.N. members must abide by it or themselves risk sanctions. The General Assembly, on the other hand, can make only recommendations.

The arms embargo likely will have little impact on Pretoria. South Africa already produces at least 60 percent — and, by some estimates, perhaps 75 percent — of its armament needs and probably could become self-sufficient.

Black African nations would like the General Assembly to press the Security Council for economic sanctions, which would be a more serious blow to the Vorster government. Oil is one of the few minerals that South Africa does not have.

Israel dubious about Sadat PLO proposal

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Government leaders Sunday said they were dubious about Anwar Sadat's suggestion that a U.S. professor represent Palestinians at Middle East peace talks, and invited the Egyptian president to name names.

Prime Minister Menahem Begin avoided the jousting over details for a Geneva conference, but said he would welcome a visit to Jerusalem by Sadat. He said Israel and Egypt are "exchanging statements" on such a trip, "politely and with mutual honor."

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said Israel would accept no negotiator with open ties to the Palestine Liberation Organization. His statements appeared to oppose the latest Egyptian proposal, but Israeli diplomats said it was not an outright rejection.

(In Tunisia, however, a PLO spokesman said Arab foreign ministers Sunday decided the guerrilla group must be invited to any Geneva conference, or else peace talks would be "null and void.")

Sadat named no particular American in his proposal Saturday, but Dayan told the weekly Israeli cabinet meeting: "If he is known as a PLO man or is representing them, Israel will not agree to his participation even if he is a professor."

"We are students," Begin said. "We don't know yet who is the professor. When we hear who it is we shall make the decision."

State's voters judge the judges

By THOMAS WEBER
United Press International

Nowhere was voter apathy more visible Tuesday than in the dozens of judicial races for seats on Pennsylvania's county courts and statewide benches, races which featured few noticeable differences of opinion between candidates and campaigns so low-key they were all but invisible.

It's not that citizens don't want good judges, according to many of the jurists themselves, and it's not that the judges don't want their positions known.

The judges say Pennsylvania's strict rules governing judicial elections keep voters poorly informed on the candidates, their philosophies and the very nature of the state court system.

Judges on all levels of Pennsylvania courts are elected, though the process of winning election is utterly different from the conventional political campaign. Most judicial candidates face little or no competition and must run only for retention once they are first voted into the courts. Federal judges, on the other hand, are appointed for life and can only be removed by impeachment.

Sitting judges are almost always retained; only one has ever lost a retention vote in Pennsylvania history.

Lycoming County Common Pleas Judge Thomas Wood was defeated for retention in 1974. Wood was not charged with misconduct in office, but made a number of unpopular decisions in his tenure on the bench, among them rejection of a suit to stop fluoridation of the Williamsport water system. Opponents of fluoridation led the drive for his defeat at the polls.

The theory behind the elective court system is that state and county judges should be held accountable for their actions in the public forum.

But how do the voters judge the judges?

"I don't see how the voters can make the decision," Judge Martin Wekselman of Allegheny County Common Pleas Court said. "The candidate can campaign on his experience or on his record as a judge. There are simply no issues on which a judge can campaign."

"There is a code of judicial conduct which says we must be somewhat divorced from politics," he said. "We may not, for example, make endorsements or political contributions."

Wekselman, originally appointed to the court, was elected to a full term by Allegheny County voters last May.

A strong supporter of the elected system is state Supreme Court Justice-elect Rolf Larsen, an Allegheny County Common Pleas judge who beat Republican Judge Frank S. Montemuro of Bucks County by more than 150,000 votes in Tuesday's election.

"I think the elected system is the best system," Larsen told UPI in an interview before the election.

"You rub up against humans and find out what life is about. It is the tendency of merit selection panels to appoint so-called 'blue bloods' and eliminate potentially innovative and creative people."

Delegates to Pennsylvania's 1968 constitutional convention provided for a referendum on a merit selection plan for the Superior, Commonwealth and Supreme Courts.

The plan would have allowed the governor to appoint judges to those courts, acting on the recommendation of a selection committee, and was roundly defeated in the 1969 primary.

The state now operates under a modified merit selection system whereby candidates are recommended to the governor by county judicial selection panels. These panels are appointed by county officials without voter approval, and their recommendations are not binding on the governor. His appointee must run in a partisan election.

Wekselman theorizes that the strong feeling for elected courts in Pennsylvania is due to the state's heterogeneous population. He believes the highly varied fragments of the population all desire their viewpoints represented on the courts and feels there is a corresponding fear of courts filled with so-called "silk stocking lawyers" who are out of touch with society.

"In a democratic form of government, why should the courts be immune from the elective process?" Wekselman asked. "There is evidence that the federal courts are out of tune with society. It is the genius of our common law that it can accomodate itself to society."

"I tend to take a different view of the subject," Senior U.S. District Judge Joseph P. Willson said.

Noting that federal dockets are jammed with America's hottest controversies, Willson said appointed status gives federal judges the independence to apply the law regardless of the popularity of their decisions.

"In the last few years of a ten-year term, some state judges get sensitive as the devil about controversy and avoid cases of public notoriety," Willson said.

"When I make a decision, my position is, 'You can appeal, but you can't fire me.' Reversal by higher courts serves as our review.

"There are political aspects to the appointive system as well," Willson added. "You can't really hope to become a federal judge solely because of merit and many judges have a political background. But once you have the job, you can be nonpolitical."

While admitting that judicial candidates may not make campaign promises or discuss specific cases, Larsen thinks the press should create far more public awareness of judicial races and feels candidates have the obligation to make their judicial philosophies known.

"The judicial canons forbid only discussion of particular cases," he said, "and a lot of candidates duck the issue and say the canons forbid discussion of philosophies.

"That's baloney — they just don't want to talk about it."

Some elements of the legal profession, however, have offered strong criticism of the elective system.

"We should dispel the myth that popular election of judges is the only truly democratic and fair method of selecting a competent judiciary," Philadelphia attorney Henry Reath wrote in a 1974 issue of the Pennsylvania Bar Quarterly.

Reath said popular elections for judges play into the hands of political leaders since the public is told little or nothing about qualifications of candidates.

He also said the elective system means that no one is accountable to the people for selection of a bad judge, where appointment would clearly fix the responsibility on the governor and a nominating commission.

Updated records on the stands

It's Guinness time again

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON (UPI) — Sandy Allen, the world's tallest living girl, has finally stopped growing and Brian Beattie, riding a motorized tricycle, covered 1,298 miles on one gallon of gasoline.

So says the 1978 edition of the Guinness Book of Records, that annual bible for bettors, arguers and triviaphiles.

The new edition has updated, replaced or revised about 35 percent of its old entries.

"This is due to records being broken, trees growing higher, moustaches growing longer, the effects of inflation and the now quieter population explosion—in brief, the restlessness of man in creating or just measuring things in, on and beyond the earth," the book's publishers said.

Sandy Allen, 22, of Shelbyville, Ind., has finally stopped growing at 7 feet 7¼ inches.

Beattie set what the publishers call "the ultimate in petrol economy" in Cheshire, England, on July 5, 1977.

Beattie added 147 miles to "the 10 miles in an hour four stroke 3 wheel record" he and Brian Toft set in June 1976, using a 50cc Honda-engined sawn down tricycle.

The 350-page book, now in its 24th edition, has thus far sold more than 32.5 million copies around the globe.

Human achievements are but one category covered. There are also the largest, smallest, rarest, fastest, longest and shortest records for human beings, the animal and plant kingdoms, space and the universe, the scientific world, the natural world, the arts and entertainments, world structures, the mechanical, business and human worlds plus sports, games and pastimes.

The human achievements section ranges from bathtub racing and cucumber slicing to spitting and yo-yoing. Grape catching, apple peeling and golf ball balancing all have their world champions.

Some other nuggets in the 1978 edition:

— P. Zyzniewski, formerly the last entry in the United Kingdom telephone directories, has been made penultimate by Shamsu Zzaman.

— Bob Speca recaptured the Domino Tumbling record he lost in 1976 by knocking down 50,000 in 17 minutes, 46.27 seconds at the University of Pennsylvania on June 21, 1977.

— Lang Martin, 16, balanced six U.S. size golf balls vertically without adhesive at Charlotte, N.C. on July 10, 1977 to break the record of five set in 1974.

— The longest recorded distance for catching a thrown grape in the mouth jumped to 251 feet, by Paul Tavila in Dedham, Mass., on July 19, 1977. Tavila surpassed the mark set in May 1977 by Arden Chapman at Northeast Louisiana University.

— Paul Wilson of New Zealand ran 100 yards backwards in 13.3 seconds on April 10, 1977 to beat the time set nearly 70 years earlier by tap dancer Bill (Bojangles) Robinson.

And mountaineering has become so popular that 56 people have stood on the summit of Mount Everest, the book said.

Excluding subsidiary summits, the highest separate unclimbed mountain in the world is now only the 31st highest, the 25,525-foot-high Zemu Peak, in the Karakoram. Zemu is 3,502 feet lower than Everest.

OPERATION BYPASS — Polish Dr. Ewa Pakalska, front, is ready to participate in new surgical procedure for victims of arteriosclerosis for whom ordinary bypass surgery won't work, with members of team at San Francisco General Hospital. Dr. Pakalska has used the procedure successfully on human patients in Poland. (UPI)

New coronary bypass studied

By LIDIA WASOWICZ

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Polish doctor has been working with American cardiologists on a new surgical procedure which may help those victims of arteriosclerosis for whom ordinary bypass surgery won't work.

Dr. Ewa Pakalska reports some success in human patients in her home country, but it is still an experimental concept in the United States with research conducted only on animals.

Dr. Pakalska, an associate professor of anatomy at the Institute of Biology and Morphology at the Medical Academy in Lodz, Poland, began research five years ago into cases of arteriosclerosis in which current coronary bypass surgery was not successful.

Results of these studies led Dr. Jan Moll, head of the Cardiosurgical Clinic at the Lodz academy, to begin experimenting with the use of veins instead of arteries as channels to carry new blood flows to the heart muscle. Later, Moll employed this procedure in treating human coronary disease.

In a healthy person, the blood flows from the heart through the arteries and returns through the veins. But the build up of fatty material in the arteries causes the vessel to become too narrow to allow the passage of blood. If these obstructions are localized — or limited to one part of the artery — coronary bypass surgery can add an extra passage, bypassing the narrowed part of the artery.

But what of those persons whose arteries are deteriorated in several places?

"A coronary bypass operation will not suffice in these cases," said Dr. Pakalska. "Instead, I have been working on a procedure which in essense reverses the flow of blood."

Dr. Elliot Rapaport, chief of Cardiology Service at General Hospital and professor of medicine at the University of California at San Francisco, said the procedure uses coronary veins as the conduits which carry the blood to the heart muscle, bypassing the entire deteriorated artery.

The concept itself is not new, having been studied by Dr. Claude Beck of Cleveland in the early 1940s. But Rapaport said Beck was unsuccessful because technology at that time was not advanced enough to permit Beck to properly select the type of patient suited for this procedure or to measure its effects.

Whereas the research in this area in the United States has been confined to animals, Dr. Pakalska said since 1974, 60 human patients have undergone the operation in Poland, and 56 have survived.

"That's why I find the procedure so exciting," she said. "Persons with severe angina pectoris, which can often lead to death, not only were relieved of their pain, but many of them actually returned to work following surgery."

Dr. Pakalska has just completed a nine-month stay in the United States. Following research studies at the University of Utah Medical Center, she was asked to extend her stay for another three months so she could join the research team at San Francisco General Hospital.

Dr. Pakalska worked with Rapaport and several other researchers at the hospital measuring the regional blood flow in pig heart muscle.

"On the basis of these physiological experiments and previous anatomical observations, this procedure appears to be of benefit to patients with long-term advanced coronary disease," said Dr. Pakalska.

Theirs and Ours canals might solve Panama

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seven undecided U.S. senators have been poking around Panama this week trying to crystalize their thinking on the canal treaty issue.

One matter they should look into is the prospect of America building a new sea level canal across the isthmus.

With the technology that is available today, it seems likely we could complete such a waterway by the year 2000, which is the date set in the treaty for Panama to take control of the existing canal.

That would be a perfect solution to the treaty dispute — two Panama canals, one owned by Panama and the other by the United States.

This is not to say there wouldn't be opposition to that arrangement, too. The trouble is that under the laws of physics water seeks its own level. Whatever that means.

When I was in freshman physics class, I never really understood that principle. What other level would water seek? As I pointed out to the professor, if water sought the level of, say, air, it would make breathing pretty difficult. This may be why I got a D in the course.

Water seeking its own level wouldn't necessarily be a problem except that sea level on Panama's Pacific shore is higher than on the Atlantic coast.

When the original canal was planned, there was some talk about making it a sea level passage. But objections were interposed, based in part on fears that the higher water in the Pacific would run down through the canal into the Atlantic, leaving California beaches several blocks from the ocean while inundating the tip of Florida and other east coast resorts.

Engineers claimed it wouldn't happen. Nevertheless, for a variety of reasons, the canal was constructed with a series of locks that raise and lower vessels from one ocean to the other.

Revival of the sea level concept almost certainly would revive the old drainage fears.

If the Atlantic Ocean were higher than the Pacific, we wouldn't have this concern.

California, as you know, has been hit by a severe drought. Building a sea level canal would alleviate that condition by covering the state with water.

It likewise would eliminate the Los Angeles smog problem by eliminating L.A. itself.

Meanwhile, on the east coast, advantages of a different sort would be accruing.

As the shoreline receded, the off-shore oil deposits that require expensive drilling platforms could be reached by land-based equipment.

If a way can be found to reverse the canal flow, it will solve the problem of water seeking its own level. It's a pity some of the politicians involved in the controversy don't seek their own level, too.

Just don't shoot enough

Americans reject TV bobbies

BY NAT GIBSON

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — British bobbies might be held in high esteem around the world, but a British character actor says they tend to bomb in the United States as the stars of television series.

Walter Gottell, a tall, hawk-nosed man in Portugal for the filming of "The Boys from Brazil," should know. He played the chief constable in "Softly, Softly," a series that ran for 12 years on British television and was still going strong when it stopped.

"Our series was exported to several European countries and the Commonwealth, but never to America because we didn't shoot enough people to satisfy American tastes," Gottell said.

As compared to the lashings of violence in American series, "Softly, Softly" was markedly placid most weeks. In the average year, only about 10 characters were seriously hurt on screen, the bobbies failed to solve the crime in four episodes and two episodes dealt with corrupt policemen.

With the stern but kindly good guy image behind him, Gottell has turned to different roles. He played the Egyptian intelligence officer, Col. Riad, in "Black Sunday" and the KGB chief in the latest Bond film, "The Spy Who Loved Me."

Now he has been cast as an truculent Nazi hit man in "The Boys from Brazil," which is being filmed around Lisbon to the delight and amazement of the Portuguese.

A popular lagoon south of the city has been turned into a South American jungle crowded with 20 tons of tropical plants. Parts of Lisbon itself have been transformed into various South American cities populated by several thousand Portuguese extras.

The $12 million movie is the most expensive one ever filmed in Portugal. It stars Gregory Peck as Nazi fugitive Joseph Mengele — "the Angel of Death of Auschwitz." Sir Laurence Olivier plays the Jewish agent hunting him, which was a flip flop for him.

The book by Ira Levin and the movie hinge on an attempt by a group of aging Nazi war criminals to create a pack of new little Hitlers through genetic engineering and environmental conditioning.

Childbirth Education Association

STROUDSBURG — The Childbirth Education Association of the Poconos in cooperation with the Lehigh Valley Chapter March of Dimes, will hold a special film evening on Tuesday, Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

The program, which will feature three films, is specifically for those persons who are contemplating parenthood and those who are in early pregnancy. All area high school and college students are encouraged to attend, also.

"Tomorrow Happens Today" which will be presented by the March of Dimes, deals with preventive measures of birth defects and discusses good nutrition, venereal disease, drugs and related topics as they affect the unborn child. "Being Born," also a March of Dimes film, emphasizes how to have a healthy baby.

"The Story of Eric," a film which the association uses for expectant parent classes, will also be screened. "Eric" is the story of a young mother and father who learn of the impending birth of their first child, go to Lamaze classes together and participate in what turns out to be a rather long and tedious labor. The film culminates with the birth of a healthy baby and joyful parents.

The film evening will be held at the Stroudsburg Middle School. Persons desiring further information may contact class registrars Merrill Baylor at 629-2615 or Carolyn Korpics at 424-5425.

Arlington-Wesley U.M. Women

Replace spices periodically

STROUDSBURG — Disappointed the last time you added that subtle touch of herbs to your meat dish and found it too subtle? Then better check your spice shelf. Remember the flavor and aroma of spices and herbs does not last indefinitely.

Rub a little of the spice or herb between your fingers, then sniff. If the aroma is faint, you might as well discard. To help preserve their freshness, keep herbs and spices tightly covered and store away from heat.

Your Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — A bit of friendly advice could mushroom into a profitable move. Don't hesitate to grab the chance when you get it.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — You may now have the responsibility of handling another's financial affairs. Do so with care. Dependence on you is great.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Be flexible but not easily turned by every wind that blows; eager to take new steps forward, but not at the cost of future losses or setbacks.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Don't try to buck present trends, or you may find yourself at unhappy variance with associates who could be helpful. Scrutinize all offerings carefully.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Certain events can act as guideposts to the future. Keep attuned to new trends and don't miss a trick.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — An unexpected encounter with the "right" person brightens your prospects for attaining an almost "impossible" goal.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Friends will make demands on your time, energy and cash. Be wary. One who is especially aggressive may pose a real problem. Counteract with tact, poise.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — Frustration CAN be avoided; so can indecision and lack of faith in your own talents. Meet with others to talk over mutual problems and possible opposition.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — You now have the inside track in a number of ways — if you will just recognize opportunities when available and handle them in your usual clever manner.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Recall an old tack or maneuver that could inspire, invigorate this day. Not everything new is THE thing, you know.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Stellar influences auspicious. Put your mind and keen powers of observation to work, but DON'T make impulsive decisions. A good day for accomplishment.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Rule out extremes and foolish chance-taking. Maintain a steady hand, a watchful eye and a determination not to forsake principles. Some misleading influences prevail.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by a zodiacal Sign of strength, purpose, versatility, mental and physical vitality. You like people, travel for adventure and stimulating enterprises. Using your talents to their fullest, you could succeed in almost any field of your choice but, if undeveloped and indifferent to responsibility, you could easily become a "playboy" or, at best, a dilettante with little accomplishment to your credit. On the higher plane, you could look forward to success in any of the following fields: science, business management, music, literature, the law or invention.

2 ♦	Pass	3 ♠	Dble
Redble	Pass	3 NT	Pass

Opening lead - three of spades.

The deal occurred in the 1976 European Junior Championship, for players up to age 25. Eighteen countries participated in the event, which was won by Austria. Sweden was second, only one victory point behind the winners.

Iceland's Sigurdsson distinguished himself in this hand when he got to five diamonds doubled and West led a spade. East played the jack, which Sigurdsson ducked in order to interfere with communication in spades between East and West.

East returned a trump to dummy's jack and declarer, after drawing another round of trumps, played a low club from dummy. East could not afford to go up with the ace, which would have given South the contract, so he followed low.

Sigurdsson took the club with the king and played five more rounds of trumps, producing this position:

♣J 10 9

East

South

Declarer now cashed the ace of spades, discarding a club from dummy, and East found himself forced to discard a club also. Sigurdsson thereupon led a club to dummy's queen. East took the ace but had to return a heart. So, as a result of his skillful play, Sigurdsson did not lose a heart trick and wound up making five diamonds doubled.

Housewives

I call 'em women in white socks living in a pantyhose world.

You know them as housewives. There's a lot of them around considering the fact they have no union, no leadership, no lobbyist, and no PR.

A few weeks ago in New York, Ladies Home Journal and Kentucky Fried Chicken co-sponsored a seminar to consider this woman who is almost an enigma.

To be a housewife these days you have several options: defend it . . . apologize for it . . . deny it, say you are only temporarily at home until something opens up.

Why?

If you're a closet housewife, it's time to come out and be counted. There's certainly nothing wrong with women opting to develop a career, return to school or admit that carrying everyone else's nose tissue in your purse doesn't do it for you. Just knowing that the options are there is enough for some of us.

But when did a woman selling orange slices in the dime store become more impressive than a woman who did a darned good job raising three kids for 20 years?

Maybe the time is now to say, "I don't make meat loaf for my husband for dinner when I hate meat loaf because he demands/expects/needs it. I do it because I want to."

Maybe it's the time to say, "I like the freedom of staying home and having control of my day and creating my own challenges. At least for now."

Maybe it's time for some of us to join forces with Susan Revit, Bayville, N. Y., who wrote:

"I always wanted a white shag rug, I thought it would look nice,

Then I had my first child. That made me think twice.

I always wanted some Lenox pieces to put on the table and admire,

And then we had our first child and I opted for a dryer.

I always wanted glass table tops and crystal like a bell,

And then I had our first child and thought plastic would do as well.

I always wanted so many things I always wishes for,

But when I saw my first child, I wanted children so much more."

Grad assistant

EAST STROUDSBURG — Patricia Ann McColligan, of East Stroudsburg, has been appointed a graduate assistant in the education department at the University of Scranton for the 1977-78 academic year by Dr. Harry B. Strickland, dean of the graduate school.

She will conduct research and assist in teaching under the supervision of a department chairman. Like all graduate assistants, Miss McColligan will receive tuition-free grants to the university and stipends ranging from $900 to $2,400 according to financial need.

In addition, she will become a member of the Graduate School Advisory Council, which periodically makes recommendations to the Dean of the Graduate School on the operation and management of graduate programs.

Colds and allergies

The cycle of colds, sinusitis and allergies is with us again. With two adults and three teenagers in the household it would be very helpful if we knew how to distinguish a cold from an allergy. —

Mrs. G. J., Mich.

Dear Mrs. J.:

A sinus infection can follow either a cold or allergy. Bacteria find their way from the nose into the sinuses, set up housekeeping and get to work.

Allergic people seem to be more susceptible to sinus infections than others because the germs that infect the sinuses grow more profusely in the warm moist area of the nose. The nose is virtually an incubator that makes these bacteria flourish.

In general, colds, infections and sinusitis are associated with achiness, headaches, a feeling of debility and, sometimes, fever.

On the other hand, allergic attacks usually confine themselves to sneezing, running of the nose and itching of the eyes. The patient may feel miserable, but does not have the general body discomfort that accompanies severe colds.

When allergies and sinus infections are present at the same time, treatment is directed at both. The use of simple antihistamines and decongestants is effective and brings moderate relief. The decisions to the use of antibiotics must, of course, be made by the doctor.

There is a tendency to use leftover antibiotics before consulting the doctor. This is unwise because not only may the shelf life of the drug have expired, but the nature of the infection may not have required the antiobiotic in the first place.

Many early colds are viral infections rather than bacterial infections. Viral infections do not respond to the antibiotics. Yet doctors will sometimes prescribe an antibiotic even though an infection seems to be of viral origin.

When people are living in close contact with each other, it is important that they separate themselves from the others at the onset of a cold. Cross-contamination is always a problem.

One of the most effective treatments for acute sinus infections is the use of steam. Concentrated steam is almost always available in the bathroom. Well-balanced steam inhalators and facial saunas are very effective. Tiny inhalators are tippable and one should be very careful when using them. Young children must never be left alone during a steam treatment.

Warm, moist conpresses to the face bring welcome relief to sufferers of acute sinus infections. Aspirin, unless forbidden in certain cases, can add to this relief.

Nose drops and nose sprays should be used only sparingly. Allergic people, particularly, have a tendency to become dependent on these "vasoconstricting" medicines. Almost before they recognize it, these drops are used with such great frequency and in such great quantities that there is a rebound swelling of the nose which makes the misery last longer.

My sincere thanks to the residents of Coolbaugh Township for their support and votes.

WHY ALUMINUM REPLACEMENT WINDOWS?

SIMPLE. Look at most high rise buildings and you'll see Aluminum Windows, not vinyl. Why? Aluminum can take structural stress, the year 'round exposure with no ill effects. Aluminum windows won't warp or sag, (that means less air leakage). Aluminum windows with baked on enamel finish won't crack or discolor. Vinyl Windows? The value of vinyl is in its resiliency. Once exposure to weather takes its toll, vinyl windows can lose that resiliency and become brittle and possibly crack. The beautiful sheen associated with new vinyl windows can also disappear and the vinyl can become chalky in appearance.

Townships want repairs from state

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Township Officials Association passed a resolution Saturday night stating that the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation should pay for improvements on state roads.

The resolution was passed at the 71st Annual Convention of the association and will be brought to the floor for approval at the state convention sometime next spring.

More than 200 people attended the local convention at the Stroud Township Fire House. A business meeting and information seminar, featuring several guest speakers, were followed by dinner and dancing.

Seminar speakers included John Anstadt, PennDOT Area Coordinator of Eastern Pennsylvania; Leonard Ziolkowsky, Monroe County's first planning director and present representative of the Economic Development Council, and Anthony Galloro, a representative from the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors.

Robert P. Casey, who was Pennsylvania's auditor general for eight years, spoke at the dinner. Casey, twice unsuccessful in his bid to become governor of Pennsylvania,

The association also re-appointed their officers: President Anthony J. Mangan, supervisor of Stroud Township; Vice President Charles Hildebrand, supervisor of Ross Township; Second Vice President William Weber, supervisor from Hamilton Township; Treasurer Tom Bonser, supervisor from Middle Smithfield Township, and Secretary Joan M. Kresge, secretary from Ross Township.

The Monroe County Township Officials Association is an association of elected township officials, including supervisors, auditors, assessors, and tax collectors.

Toby man convicted of theft

STROUDSBURG — Stanley Deskevitch of Tobyhanna was convicted by a jury Wednesday of theft by failure to make required disposition of funds. Sentencing was delayed for appeals to be filed.

Deskevitch was found guilty of failing to deposit $1,862 in receipts between April, 1976 and March of this year while he was manager of the Pocono Mountain Trails bus terminal on Park Avenue in Stroudsburg.

In other court action Thursday, Harold Romeo of Nichols, N. Y., was fined $300 plus costs for drunken driving last month.

Obituaries

Gertrude Currier

SNYDERSVILLE — Mrs. Gertrude E. Currier, 85, of 32 Avon Court, East Stroudsburg, died Saturday in Pleasant Valley Manor, Snydersville. She was the widow of Herbert A. Currier.

Born in Claytownville, Ill., a daughter of the late August and Marie (Geigouhorm) Burkard, she had been a Monroe County resident for the last 50 years.

She was a member of the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, the ladies auxiliary of the George N. Kemp post 346 American Legion of East Stroudsburg and the Golden Age Club of East Stroudsburg. She was the dietician of the former Rosenkrans Hospital in East Stroudsburg.

She is survived by two stepdaughters, Mrs. Lawton Clapper of Shawnee-On-Delaware and Mrs. Merrill Fink of Ocala, Fla.; one sister, Mrs. Bertha Reineke of Eureka, Ill.; five step-grandchildren; 16 step-great-grandchildren, and three step-great-great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Lanterman & Allen Funeral Home, 27 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, with Rev. Jonathan B. Heilner officiating. Burial will be in the Prospect Cemetery, East Stroudsburg. Friends and relatives may pay respects from 12:30 p.m. until the time of service Wednesday at the funeral home.

Administrator of Bangor schools dies

BETHLEHEM — Domenick DeFranco, 44, of 295 Park Ave., Bangor, superintendent of the Bangor Area School District, died Sunday morning in St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem. He is survived by his wife, Joan (Bignaman) DeFranco, at home.

Born in Roseto, a son of the late Marie (Camilletti) and Domenic DeFranco, he had been an administrator in the Bangor school system for some 12 years.

An elementary principal in the Phillipsburg, N.J. school system, he moved to the Bangor system in the mid 1960s to become an elementary supervisor.

He was promoted to acting superintendent, served in that capacity one year, then was named superintendent a year ago this past summer.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mary Ellen, a student at Penn State, Penny and Suzy, both at home; five brothers, Frank, Anthony and Daniel, all of Roseto, Paul of Bangor and Albert of Phillipsburg.

Also five sisters, Clementina Svrosky of Bethlehem, Rose Plattenburg of Rutherford, N.J., Helen Marieallo of New Hampshire, Jennie Polo of Roseto and Lucy Horn of Phillipsburg.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Bangor with Rev. Richard Boyer officiating. There will be no calling hours.

The family requests memorial donations be made to the American Cancer Society.

HSC committee plans meeting

ALLENTOWN — The plan development committee of the Health Systems Council of eastern Pennsylvania will meet 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16, to review and discuss the health systems plan, a document identifying means of improving the area's health care system.

The meeting will be in the board room of the Allentown and Sacred Heart Hospital Center, 1200 South Cedar Crest Blvd., Allentown. The meeting is open to the public.

DWG meets

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Delaware Water Gap Borough Council will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 21, to begin working on its 1978 budget.

Council will handle any other business that comes before it Nov. 21.

ESSC passes

EAST STROUDSBURG — All teacher education programs offered at East Stroudsburg State College have received approval from the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

The various programs in teacher education offered by the institution were evaluated by a selected team headed by Dr. Herbert H. Womack, dean of education at Cheyney State College. The major review and evaluation was conducted on campus from April 19 to 21.

Teacher education programs now offered at ESSC include dental hygiene, driver education, elementary education, English, foreign languages, health and physical education, mathematics, sciences, social studies, special education and speech correction.

"All the programs which have been offered for a number of years received full five-year approval from the department of education, and a new program in special education has received initial approval," said Dr. Lester J. Bowers.

Music, dance at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two evenings of musical and dance entertainment will be offered at East Stroudsburg State College today and Tuesday, Nov. 15 in the college auditorium. Each performance is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. and will carry a $1 general admission fee to the general public.

Today's performance will feature Judith Lander, a well-known and gifted pianist, while the Tuesday performance will be provided by the Theatre Dance Collection, a dance group from New York City.

Judith Lander is distinguished as an artist of rare qualities, a college spokesman said. She is a very moving artist whose powers of self-expression are considered exactly right for the love-hate world, he said. Also, her strength as a singer enables her to reach the very soul of the listener, according to acclaimed critics.

Bangor cancels

BANGOR — The regular meeting of the Bangor Area School District scheduled for today will be postponed to Tuesday, Nov. 22 in respect for Superintendent Domenick DeFranco.

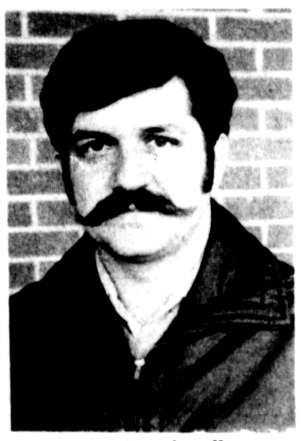
Your opinions on gas guzzlers

EAST STROUDSBURG — Congress is considering placing a tax or ban on sales of new gas-guzzling cars to encourage energy conservation. Seventeen persons shopping in East Stroudsburg Sunday were asked their opinions about this, and some of their thoughts follow. Although none favored a ban, many favored a tax, and one said the auto industry itself should be taxed for producing fuel-inefficient cars.

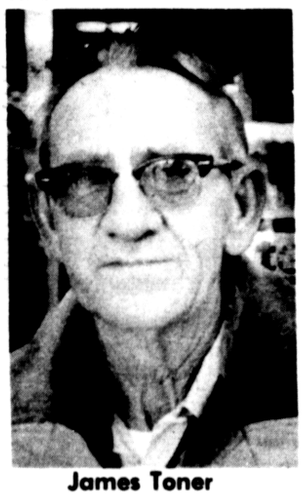
Ruth Wigley

Ruth Wigley, Ephrata: "I don't think they should ban or tax them. There are a lot of large families that need big cars, and the price of gasoline will penalize them enough, especially if the price keeps going up."



Larry Rondinelli

Larry Rondinelli, Bangor: "If the trend is to stay with large cars that use a lot of gas, I think they should be taxed accordingly. But I think car manufacturers can make cars that get a lot of miles to the gallon that are still big enough for families. I think now there is a conspiracy between the oil and auto industries, and when the price of gas gets where they want it, then they'll make more efficient cars."

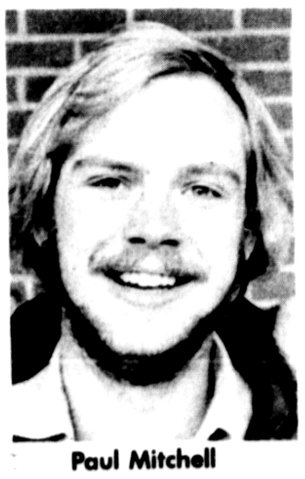


James Toner

James Toner, Stroud Township: "I don't think they should ban or tax them. We're being taxed to the limit now, and I think if you want a big car you should be able to buy one."

Sandy Jones

Sandy Jones, East Stroudsburg: "I think they should be heavily taxed, rather than banned. I don't think it's right to ban anything."



Paul Mitchell

Paul Mitchell, Stanford, Conn.: "I think a sliding fuel tax on cars might be effective. My only concern is that it might turn into a type of rebate on small foreign cars, which I don't think would be good for our own industry."

Ruth Gustafson

Ruth Gustafson, Williamsport: "They should be taxed, but not banned, because a person should have a choice of what kind of car they can buy. And price of gas itself could discourage some people from buying large cars."

Ed Getz

Ed Getz, East Stroudsburg: "If people are willing to pay for extra gas, they should be allowed to buy large cars. I think the gas prices alone would be enough of a penalty."

Lost for 12 hours in woods

Search for children ends in hug

By MIKE JOSEPH
Pocono Record Reporter

TOBYHANNA — "It was black I'll tell you. It was dark. It was cold. It was windy."

Thus Barrett Township Fire Chief Jim Walter described the setting early Saturday morning where two scared children were found deep in a rugged forest nearly 12 hours after they got lost while chasing their dog.

More than 80 firemen from six fire companies in northern Monroe County directed by Coolbaugh Fire Chief Harry Smith took part in the search that led to the finding of Billy Doran, 12, and his 8-year-old sister, Juliette.

The youngsters had come with their parents from their Levittown home near Philadelphia to visit their grandparents in Top of the Mountain development near Tobyhanna.

The search for them began at about 3 p.m. Friday when their parents reported them missing to Coolbaugh Police Chief Joseph Gerrity. They had been chasing their dog, Candy, which had romped into the woods.

The search for them ended at about 2:30 a.m. Saturday three miles from their home in state game lands near Seven-pine Mountain.

Gerrity said the children were cold but in need of no medical attention. "They were scared but they certainly were happy when the men found them," he added. "The firemen were happy, too."

The four score of firemen in a variety of four-wheel drive vehicles had been searching an area, from its perimeter inward, with corners roughly at Mo-nom-o-nock resort, Pocono Farms, Top of the Mountain development and Buck Hill resort.

Any of the searchers could have come upon the children, but a group from Barrett Township happened to.

"It was just unbelievable," said fireman John Linder. "We just heard voices. It was just an act of God, that's all."

Linder said two other firemen, Jim Lewis and Joe Dunlap, had stopped their truck to take a break and to listen.

Linder said they heard a faint sound from the distance — several hundred yards away — that they could scarcely discern from the noise of the wind.

Another truck of men was called in along with a four-man foot patrol. So dark were the woods and so faint were the children's voices that it took the firemen more than 45 minutes to pinpoint their position after the voices first were heard.

"They were answering back when the men were calling them," explained Fire Chief Smith. "It was just luck that the men heard them because it was cold and breezy and they were downwind from everyone."

The foot patrol — John Sengle, Roland Imbt and Dave Shaller — finally got to them. Were the children happy to be found?

"Were they!" Shaller said. "The little girl wrapped her arms around my neck and that was it until we got back to the truck. She wouldn't let go."

Coffeehouse turns on love light

By SHERRIE SPANGLER
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Frost on windows and clouds of breath from people scurrying down Main Street Saturday night said it was cold outside — hardly the type of night to encourage casual street corner gatherings or strolling away the time.

But in a basement room, only a few feet away from Main Street, the scene was all candlelight, soft guitar music, friendly conversation and warm coffee. It was Love Light Ministries Inc.'s second weekly free coffeehouse held in the YMCA, 809 Main St., Stroudsburg.

The coffeehouse, called His Place, is a Christian outreach and a place where persons of all ages and inclinations are invited to enjoy live musical entertainment, free coffee, doughnuts and cookies, and to talk. His Place is open from 8 to 11 p.m. every Saturday.

A similar coffehouse was held by Love Light Thursday, Nov. 10, at East Stroudsburg State College and attracted about 80 persons, mostly students. Love Light and several Christian groups at the college are planning to hold another one Dec. 17.

All the coffeehouses are being held to fulfill a dream of Love Light's president, Dean Ritter, to provide a place where the young people of Monroe County will feel welcome and accepted and where they can talk to coffeehouse staff members about their problems.

The atmosphere this past Saturday was easy at His Place. People of all ages drifted in and out, with about 12 in the room at one time. An elderly woman sat at a corner table, along with a child and a middle-aged man and woman. The group leaned together and talked earnestly.

Linda Baker, 22, of Delaware Water Gap, drifted among the tables, meeting people and smiling. "I like it here," she said. "Everyone is so friendly. And the music is good, too."

The music this past week was provided by bearded, blue-jeaned Larry Bitterman of Stroudsburg, who interspersed his songs with conversation. "When I was young, I had trouble finding love," he told the audience. "So I created a fantasy world in my head where I was the hero . . . But the real world came along and crushed those fantasies.

"Then Jesus came along and loved me and brought me peace," he said, and strummed his guitar into another song.

Larry Brown, vice president of Love Light, said he hopes that eventually His Place will attract the youths who now hang out on Main Street at night.

The decor of His Place will be geared toward teenagers. Its cardtables will soon be replaced by wooden cable tables painted with flourescent colors that will glow in black light. Posters adorn the walls.

While none of the Main Street youths were at His Place Saturday, John MacLeod, one of His Place's 12 staff members, said, "This is like a seed that you plant in the ground. When you look a week later, you can't see it, but pretty soon a blade appears, then a leaf."

Naturalists spin with pedal power

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Five bicyclists pedalled nearly 70 miles along the Delaware River last week to demonstrate their support for the bill to include part of that river in the Wild and Scenic River System.

The trip, from Delaware Water Gap to New Hope, where the subcommittee hearing on the bill took place Friday, was sponsored by the Delaware Valley Conservation Association (DVCA). Bicyclists included Charles Komanoff, an energy consultant from New York City who heads Komanoff Energy Associates; Tom Stokes, another New York City environmentalist who represented Friends of the Earth at the hearing; Martin Savage, computer programmer in Warren County; Joan Nelson, social worker in Sussex County and treasurer of the DVCA, and Mina Hamilton Haefele, president of the DVCA.

The group left Delaware Water Gap at 7:45 a.m. Thursday morning and arrived, exhausted, in New Hope at 4:15 p.m. The bikers took Rte. 611 to Belvidere where they crossed over into New Jersey. They then rode along the river to Rte. 29 which took them into New Hope.

The DVCA hopes that legislation making the Delaware River from Delaware Water Gap to Port Jervis, N. Y. part of the Wild and Scenic River System will block future construction of the controversial Tocks Island Dam project.

"The trip is a personal testimony to our deep belief that the Middle and Upper Delaware River should be preserved for the enjoyment of future generations," said Mrs. Haefele. "During the 14 years of the Tocks Dam battle, we have written and spoken volumes of words. The time is ripe to demonstrate with toes, feet, leg, back and stomach muscles, to show with our hearts and souls that Tocks Island dam must die now without further delay."

The river along their route, said Mrs. Haefele, was simply beautiful.

"I thought it would be an interesting idea to help generate interest in the hearing, but I didn't think it would be so much fun," said Mrs. Haefele.

Gasoline leaks into Toby cellar

TOBYHANNA — An abandoned underground gasoline storage tank owned by Conrail has posed a potentially dangerous problem for a Tobyhanna homeowner, but Conrail has promised to dig up the tank and alleviate the problem starting today.

Arthur J. Huey of Church Street in Tobyhanna lives next to Conrail's abandoned rail station and its equally abandoned underground gasoline tank.

The tank was left with a little gasoline in it, Huey said, and recent rains have overfilled the tank, which itself is corroding and sprouting leaks.

The water-diluted gasoline has been seeping underground into Huey's basement. The fumes have permeated his home. "We've had to leave the windows open all over the house," he said.

Huey called his fuel oil distributor because he thought his heating system may have been faulty, but the distributor identified the leaking storage tank as the culprit.

Huey called Conrail. Conrail said they would begin removing the abandoned tank today.

Police, Fire Calls

DWG shooting charged

DELAWARE WATER GAP — An argument on Minsi Road in Delaware Water Gap late Saturday night led to a shooting and the subsequent arrest of a New Jersey man on aggravated assault and reckless endangerment charges.

In Monroe County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail is Colin G. Dodge, 28, of 35 Sussex Ave., Morristown, N.J. He was arraigned before District Magistrate Earl Ammerman. A hearing is set for 10:15 p.m. Friday.

One of the four men with whom Dodge was arguing, John Vogt of Delaware Water Gap, was struck in the left foot by a pellet from a blast from Dodge's shotgun, according to Delaware Water Gap Police Chief William Snow. Snow said Vogt was treated at Pocono Hospital and released.

Snow said the altercation, shortly before 11 p.m., was between Dodge, Doug Jennings of Stroudsburg R.D. 1, Kim Plattenburg of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2 and Oscar Counterman of Stroudsburg R.D. 1.

Snow said he was told that Dodge pulled the shotgun out of his car and pointed it at Jennings. "Then John Vogt tried to pull the gun out of the guy's hands and that's when the gun went off," Snow said.

Another man who was accompanying Dodge escaped into the woods and has not been found, Snow said.

Car fire reported

SAYLORSBURG — An early Sunday morning fire destroyed a car on Rte. 209 in Sciota, according to Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Fire Chief Ron Shoemaker.

Shoemaker said the car, a Camaro, owned by Randy Treible, caught fire at about 2 a.m. as Treible was driving it south on the highway.

No one was injured. Shoemaker is still investigating the cause of the blaze. Twenty firemen with four trucks responded.

Vandals hit car dealer

STROUDSBURG — Vandals struck Stroud Ford car dealership on N. Ninth Street Saturday night, knocking out grills and forcing open hoods on nine 1978 model Ford pickup trucks. Damage was estimated at $900.

The vandalism happened within an hour after Stroud Ford owner Vincent Vecchio closed the dealership for the day at 6:15 p.m., according to Stroudsburg police. Police discovered the damaged trucks while on routine patrol at 7:15 p.m.

Search on for boat

STROUDSBURG — State police at Swiftwater are searching for a motorist who stole an 18-foot Caravelle motor boat and its trailer from the westbound shoulder of Interstate 80 Friday night.

The theft happened shortly after 6 p.m. near the Dreher Avenue exit in Stroudsburg.

William Finn of Staten Island, the owner, told police he had detached the boat and trailer from his car to drive to a nearby gas station to have a trailer tire repaired.

Police believe that while Finn's boat was abandoned a passing motorist with a trailer hitch attached to his car made off with the boat and trailer, which were valued at $6,000.

Pocono called to fires

TANNERSVILLE — Pocono Township firemen responded to two fires Sunday, the first a car fire at about 8:30 a.m. for which no service was required and the second a chimney fire at 7:45 p.m. in a home in Laurel Lakes development.

Assistant Fire Chief Nelson Smith said the chimney fire caused no damage. The township firemen also were called out at 10:30 p.m. Saturday for a wash down at Roadway Express, where a cylinder of gas was leaking.

Rocks thrown at police HQ

EAST STROUDSBURG — A vandal sometime late Saturday night or early Sunday morning threw a rock through a window of East Stroudsburg borough police headquarters at Crystal and Analomink Streets.

The stone smashed through a single pane of a six-pane window and apparently was the only accurate throw of several. Police said they found outside the window about 20 other rocks that apparently missed their mark and bounced instead off the building's brick wall.

Saylorsburg family homeless after fire

SAYLORSBURG — A two-alarm fire Sunday afternoon left a Saylorsburg family of four homeless and destroyed all their possessions.

The fire, apparently caused by faulty electrical wiring, gutted the single-story house of Edward G. Haas Jr. on Mount Eaton Road.

Haas, his wife and their two young children were away and the home was unoccupied when the fire began smouldering in the early afternoon, Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Fire Chief Ron Shoemaker said.

Blue Ridge and West End firemen were called after Mrs. Haas returned to the house at 2:30 p.m. to discover its interior fully ablaze.

Thirty-five firemen with eight trucks from both companies fought the blaze for more than three hours and finally stopped it with the walls and roof still standing.

Shoemaker said the home's unusual structure and its tin-over-asphalt roof made the fire hard to fight. The tin roof concealed the inside blaze until it was out of control, he said.

Shoemaker said the Haas family will live with relatives temporarily.

Cavaliers set stage for Turkey Day showdown

By JOE DeVIVO
Record Sports Writer

EAST STROUDSBURG — Lehighton won the air battle. East Stroudsburg captured command of the ground game. From that standpoint, it was a draw.

But the Cavaliers came up with the big defensive play when they needed it most — an interception by Ed Hennix — which turned the tide and decided the war.

East Stroudsburg, led by the devastating one-two running punch of Daren Eppley and Guy Freeman, overshadowed a tremendous passing performance by Lehighton's Dave Warner and pulled out a thrilling 34-22 triumph Saturday night.

The victory, which snapped the Indians' string of three straight shutouts and five consecutive wins, gives the Cavaliers sole possession of second place in the Centennial League with a 6-1 record and sets up a Thanksgiving Day showdown for first place against arch-rival Stroudsburg.

Eppley rushed for 191 yards on 28 carries to raise his season's total to 1,135 yards and scored on runs of 1 and 60 yards, while Freeman contributed 88 yards rushing which included a 36-yard TD burst, to share the Cavaliers' offensive spotlight with quarterback Todd Repsher, who passed for two touchdowns.

But while the Cavaliers relied on Eppley, Freeman, and Repsher, the Indians' hopes rested with the talented arm of Warner, who single-handedly kept Lehighton in the ballgame.

Warner was left as Lehighton's lone effective weapon after the Cavaliers' defense, led by Lue Nase, Tom Devaney, Steve Kolcun, Pete Dimmick, and Freeman shut down the Indians' ground game.

Warner's big night

Warner was up to the challenge as he connected on 13 of 19 passes for 212 yards, including touchdown passes of six and 39 yards to Larry Mertz, and caught a 25-yard scoring pass from Mertz for Lehighton's other score. In short, he was the one man the Cavaliers' couldn't stop.

"Without Warner it wouldn't have even been a contest," said Cavalier coach Dick Merring. "We worked all week long on that throw back pass and he still completed it. He put the ball right on the money."

Warner almost achieved the hero's role. After the Cavaliers stormed back from a 14-13 halftime deficit to take a 27-14 lead on Eppley's one-yard run and Repsher's 22-yard touchdown pass to Keith Witman on the first play of the fourth quarter, the game looked wrapped up.

"I felt good at that point," Merring admitted. "They just couldn't stop our running game."

Statistics

	L	ES
First downs	14	20
Rushing yardage	64	317
Passing yardage	237	97
Passes	14-20	5-10
Interceptions	1	1
Punts	5-27	3-34
Fumbles-fumbles lost	2-1	0-0
Penalties	7-85	9-97

But Merring had forgotten how quickly Warner can strike. In five plays, he marched the Indians 64 yards down the field and hit Mertz with a perfectly thrown 39-yard pass for the touchdown. When Kevin Snyder made the two-point conversion run, suddenly the Indians trailed by only 27-22 with 10:26 still left.

Warner came right back two minutes later to move the Indians in position for the go-ahead score as two passes to Randy Fritz and a personal foul penalty gave Lehighton a first down at the Cavaliers' 37.

"We needed a break," said Merring. "I knew sooner or later we'd get something. He wasn't going to keep hitting those passes all night."

Hennix redeems himself

Hennix gave the Cavaliers that break Merring was hoping for on the next play when he intercepted a pass at the 20 and ran it all the way back to the Indians' 33. Five plays later, Repsher hammered the final nail in the Indians' coffin when he hit a wide-open Devaney for a 15-yard touchdown pass with 4:10 left.

Hennix' interception enabled him to redeem himself for a first-half play where he was burned for a 41-yard pass from Warner to Snyder on a third-and-30 call, which set up the Indians' first score — a strange pass play from halfback Mertz to quarterback Warner. Mertz took a handoff and appeared trapped with no receiver in sight, but looked at the last moment to the opposite side and dumped off a short pass to Warner, who bowled over two defenders to reach the end zone.

"That wasn't a broken play," explained coach Jim Wentz. "It's in our playbook. We used the same play against Slatington. Mertz is supposed to look for a receiver on the fly and if he's not open, he throws to Warner."

East Stroudsburg's two big first-half plays were Freeman's 36-run on a dive play up the middle two plays after Warner's touchdown and Eppley's 60-yard burst with 2:39 left in the second period.

"I called that play and then almost changed my mind," Merring said. "They came out in a 60 defense and the play shouldn't have worked. But Carl Llwellyn knocked his man back seven yards and Eppley made a super cut to make the play work."

Although Eppley's score gave the Cavaliers a 13-8 lead they quickly fell behind as Warner drove his team 63 yards in seven plays, capped by his six-yard pass to Mertz 32 seconds before halftime.

The Cavaliers, however, took command in the second half by picking up scores on drives of 68 and 57 yards the first two times they got the ball. Eppley, who had carried just six times in the first two periods, was the big key in both drives.

Ball control worked

"Daren had an outstanding game. Both he and Guy were running as hard as they can," commented Merring. "We decided to go to what we do best in the second half — basic ball control football. The offensive line, particularly the left side, (Kolcun, Llewellyn, and Devaney) really was opening the holes."

"We were so positive we could do it. The whole team knew we could score," he added. "It was really a big game for all our seniors. This was their last home game and they just love this Purple Pit. We've only lost two games in four years here."

Wentz, who saw his team drop to 5-2 in league play and 7-3 overall, felt mistakes and an inability to mount a ground attack were the two biggest factors in his team's defeat.

"They took the quick pitch and the option away from us," Wentz said. "We might have been able to run inside, but we were in positions and situations where we couldn't run. When you get behind, you have to change your game plan. I didn't think we'd have to throw that much.

"We also made a lot of mistakes we haven't had before like penalties (seven for 85 yards)," Wentz added. "That happens against an aggressive football team. I have to give them credit. They played a very good game."

Warriors blank W. Chester for first time since 1942

ESSC seniors go out in style

By JOE MIEGOC
Record Sports Editor

STROUDSBURG — Four seasons ago, a talented group of freshmen came on the varsity football scene at East Stroudsburg State College with a bang. On Saturday, they went out the same way.

It was only fitting that seniors Harold Strunk and Mike Terwilliger would have a large role in a fitting end to their careers and it was even more fitting that the Warriors would end this season with a one-sided 24-0 victory over arch-rival West Chester.

Strunk picked up 167 yards on 31 carries and scored a pair of touchdowns to tie Toby Barkman's 16-year-old school record of 15 in one season.

The Warriors opened quickly with 17 points in the first 12½ minutes and were on their way to several milestones:

— The first time ever an ESSC team has beaten West Chester three successive years.

— The first time ESSC has shut out West Chester since 1942, a span of 31 games since a 26-0 ESSC victory in 1942.

— A defensive effort that held West Chester to just seven first downs in the game, none in the second half and a total of just 186 yards offense. Meanwhile, the Warriors totaled 422 yards.

"It was a good, total game," said ESSC coach Denny Douds. "Our kids got out of the blocks today. They played like they owned the place."

17 points in 1st quarter

That feeling was established early, as the Warriors got on the scoreboard on a 31-yard Jack Rogers field goal after just 5:11 had elapsed. Strunk picked up 41 yards on that drive.

Strunk took care of the second score on a bruising five-yard run with 5:53 left in the quarter after Terwilliger had picked up a first down on an option run and then tossed a 25-yard pass to Bill Seidel at the Golden Rams' seven.

At that point, the defense took over. Joe Senser, West Chester's mammoth (6-5, 215) tight end, who later set a season reception record with his 54th catch of the year, caught a pair of passes but fumbled the second one away after a 36-yard gain to the Warriors' 25.

Statistics

	WC	ES
First downs	7	20
Rushing yardage	90	249
Passing yardage	96	173
Passes	9-16	11-21
Interceptions	2	1
Punts	8-39	3-37
Fumbles-fumbles lost	2-1	3-1
Penalties	4-43	5-27

Jeff Johnson, who finished the game with 13 tackles, stripped it clean and Steve Smith recovered at the 25.

Ironically, Smith had suffered a broken leg in last year's West Chester game, an injury which sidelined him for the season and eventually allowed him an extra season's eligibility.

Strunk ties record

Eight plays later, Strunk popped through left tackle on a quick-hitting play and was past the secondary before it had a chance to react, rambling 44 yards to score and tie Barkman's record. Rogers kicked and it was 17-0 before most fans had a chance to get settled.

"We wanted to go inside on them," Strunk said. "The amount of carries I had didn't surprise me because out of our 'I' set the tailback carries 95 percent of the time."

Although the pattern of the game may have already been set by those quick 17 points, two efforts turned in by the Warriors' defense in the second quarter took care of the game's outcome.

A 36-yard run by Vince Lullio on a double reverse, a 15-yard reception by Senser and a fake field goal pass by Darwin Breaux gave West Chester a first down at the nine.

But Fred Balina made a great play to tip away a pass to Senser at the goal-line on third down and Jack Shrawder hit quarterback Craig Atkinson's arm on fourth down to force an incompletion.

A fumble recovery by the Golden Rams' Pete Robinson at the ESSC 47 and Senser, on a 17-yard pass from Atkinson, and Bill Blystone helped move the ball to the ESSC 15.

But Johnson dumped Don Jackson on a short screen at the seven and after Lullio gained a yard to the six, Balina came up quickly to cut Jackson down on a pitch to the left side at the ESSC six, inches short of a first down.

"We had two real good stands down there," Douds said. "Without them it would have been 17-14 at the half."

It wasn't, though, and when the Warriors' defense completely controlled the second half, the game was over. West Chester, which finished 5-5, managed just 16 plays from scrimmage, excluding punts, in the final 30 minutes and never advanced past ESSC's 47.

The defense held Blystone, who entered the game with 817 yards, to just 30 in 10 carries. Lullio had 72 of the Rams' 90 yards rushing, most of it on double reverses.

Terwilliger got last TD

The Warriors' final score came on a six-yard keeper by Terwilliger with 12:24 left in the game.

The drive began at the ESSC 45 and included a 21-yard screen pass to Dave Bingham. Strunk got a first down at the 20 and another at the nine, with Terwilliger taking it the final six yards on second down. Jack Rogers kicked his 34th straight extra point for the final 24-0 margin.

The Warriors were eager to give Strunk an opportunity for a record-setting 16th score, but he was covered like a blanket on Terwilliger's score and was heavily covered when the Warriors threatened later in the final period.

Balina set up the last threat with a 17-yard return of an interception to the West Chester 43 and Strunk kept it going with a 17-yard gain on a screen pass to the 26.

Tom Palubinski caught a 13-yarder to the Rams' nine, but Strunk was smothered for a gain of three on a third down screen and West Chester's Mike Skalamera intercepted an end zone pass to Strunk on fourth down.

"At that point," Strunk said, "it really didn't matter if I got it or not. I had tied it, so anything more was just gravy."

He did wind up with 913 yards for the season to rank second in ESSC history behind the record 1,036 rolled up by Pete Radocha in 1976.

"What a tremendous year Strunk has had," Douds said. "Moving from fullback to tailback, back and forth, and still getting more than 900 yards in eight games. What a year for him."

Terwilliger, who had eight completions in 13 attempts for 140 yards after three quarters, finished the day with 11 out of 21, four to tight end Dennis Gorman, for 173 yards. Strunk's 167 yards and 66 by a tough-running Bingham in 17 carries helped the Warriors to a 249-yard afternoon, while West Chester managed only 90 yards on the ground and 96 passing.

"That's what West Chester used to do to other teams," Douds pointed out. "But we beat them in the air, on the ground, running at them on special teams, everything."

Behind Johnson, who was intimidating all day, were Lou Schiavetta, Bill Bergen and Mike Simpson, all with six tackles apiece.

The senior group wound up their careers with a 30-4-1 record, including a pair of Pennsylvania Conference championships.

What a way to go out.

Second-half scoring spurt carries Catty past Pius

By JOE POLONI

CATASAUQUA — Junior halfback Glenn Reightler and sophomore end Jim Schaffer sparked a four-touchdown outburst in the second half Saturday night in leading Catasauqua to a 28-10 independent football victory over Pius X.

The victory clinched a winning season for the Rough Riders (6-4) with one game remaining. The Royals concluded their season with an impressive 8-2 mark. Pius X has amassed an overall record of 17-2-1 in two seasons under coach John Smith.

Reightler rushed for 102 yards on 25 carries and scored three touchdowns in helping the Rough Riders overcome deficits of 3-0 and 10-6. Schaffer caught five passes for 97 yards and caught a conversion pass from quarterback Charlie Gerancher following Catasauqua's second touchdown.

Brian Happel's 22-yard field goal with seven seconds remaining in the first half gave the Royals a 3-0 lead at intermission. Happel, who came up with the Royals' only turnover on an interception, was short on an earlier field goal try from 58 yards out.

Reightler quickly turned the momentum around for Catasauqua when he returned the second-half kickoff 90 yards, outsprinting defenders down the right sideline, to give his team a short-lived 6-3 lead.

The Royals scored their only touchdown on their next possession to take a 10-6 advantage. Pius X went 63 yards on five plays. After quarterback Gene Caponigro picked up a first down on a sneak at his own 48, the Royals' steady signal caller lofted a pass to Happel at the Catasauqua 30-yard line. Happel outraced a defender on the right side in completing a 52-yard play.

Again, the Rough Riders came back to regain the lead behind Reightler and Schaffer. Reightler picked up 30 yards on five carries and scored from a yard out with 4:29 remaining in the third quarter. Schaffer was a key man in the 66-yard, 11-play drive. Gerancher found Schaffer twice on the left side for a total of 33 yards and also completed his conversion pass on that same side.

"They ran a pattern that was very difficult to defend against," explained Smith. "The only way to defend against it is to get a little more rush on the passers. It's called a seam pattern and it's a weakness for any defensive secondary, any one designed. If you give them time, they're going to hit it."

Catasauqua broke the game open when Jerry Jandres recovered a fumbled pitchout at the Royals' 15-yard line. Reightler, who showed a great amount of second effort all night, covered the remaining yardage on four plays and ran for the conversion to put the Roughies up 22-10 with 57 seconds gone in the fourth quarter.

"We've gone to an I-formation in the last two weeks," said Catasauqua coach Dale Edwards. "This makes Reightler our primary running back even more than before. He has tremendous second effort, real good balance and reads his blocks real well."

The Royals turned the ball over on downs in the final minute to set up Catasauqua's final touchdown. Tom Riegel ran hard to spark a 27-yard drive and scored from two yards out with 13 seconds remaining.

Despite suffering a season ending loss in the first ever meeting between the two teams, Smith had nothing but praise for his players.

"I don't think this defeat negates the great season that these kids played. An 8-2 record is great, fantastic," said Smith, "especially with the schedule we played. We had a very successful season in my opinion. You get spoiled when you win all the games, and you can't let disappointment get you down too long. You've got to bounce back. It's a shame it happened at the end of the season, but still, you can't take away anything from this season. It was a great season."

The Royals were held to 50 yards rushing, due partially to the fact that toprunning back Alan Reto had to miss the game with a severe thigh injury. Caponigro had a similar injury and started the game on the bench in favor of junior Dave Fisher. Caponigro's first action at quarterback came with 9:33 remaining in the first half.

Smith was particularly proud of his seniors and cited the fine play of two-way end Phil Cinelli, center-linebacker Quinn Martino and Caponigro, who completed six passes and ran for two first downs in spite of his injury.

Bowl speculation irritates Paterno

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — The countdown has begun and both Penn State and Pittsburgh are anxiously awaiting blastoff.

If you think they're waiting impatiently for the kickoff of their celebrated "Best of the East" showdown on Nov. 26, you're wrong. They're looking forward to 6 p.m. EST next Saturday when the bowl bids are fired out.

The eighth-ranked Nittany Lions, 9-1, did nothing to hurt their standing for the Orange or Sugar Bowls Saturday with a 44-7 victory over Temple. The ninth-ranked Panthers, 8-1-1, kept pace with a 52-26 pasting of Army.

All this has the bowl scouts in a dither and the so-called "experts" are also starting to speculate as to who goes where. The most popular opinion is that the Orange Bowl will offer a berth opposite the Big Eight champion to the Pitt-Penn State winner.

But don't do all this speculating around Penn State Coach Joe Paterno. Whatever the bowl situation, he thinks all this talk is crazy.

"I'm sick of conjecture (in talking about bowls)," he said Saturday. "I don't know anything and nobody knows anything right now. It's just a question of ifs, ands, buts and so forth."

But it's a sure thing that the Nittany Lions will see some kind of post-season action and an even surer bet they'll take in a better team than the one that played in last year's Gator Bowl.

"I think they have done as well at this stage as anyone could have expected," Paterno said of his team. "They've done a good job and they're getting awfully good. In fact, this could turn out to be the best football team we've ever had here."

Two of the reasons for the Penn State improvement are junior quarterback Chuck Fusina and senior flanker Jimmy Cefalo. Fusina threw for 249 yards and three touchdowns. Cefalo caught scoring passes of 12 and 26 yards and added a third TD on a 9- yard run.

In all, Penn State rolled up 468 yards in total offense and were never threatened after Rick Donaldson scored on a 22-yard run of a blocked punt by Neil Hutton in the second quarter.

"Fusina and Cefalo are good football players," Paterno said. "Fusina is getting better each week. Right now, I think he is a very outstanding quarterback.

"Cefalo, when he gets his hands on the ball, he makes things happen. I've said many times our problem has been to give him the ball enough. When he gets his hands on it, he can go."

Fusina's yardage gave him 2,075 for the season, breaking a record for most yards in one year, 2,039, set by John Hufnagel in 1972.

Temple started out as if it was going to be as tough as in the previous two years when the Owls lost by a point each time. The visitors missed a field goal on their first possession, but Anthony Anderson's 1-yard run in the second quarter brought them to within 10-7.

But Donaldson's run, a 12-yard Fusina to Cefalo touchdown pass and Matt Suhey's 1-yard run made up a 20-point second quarter and the Nittany Lions were on their way.

"It's a lot better playing them early in the year," mused Temple Coach Wayne Hardin. "At the end of the year and at home, they get pretty good."

Star QB fractures leg in 42-10 victory

Vikes lose Tarkenton for season

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings rebounded from recent disappointments to rout the Cincinnati Bengals 42-10 Sunday but it probably cost them veteran quarterback Fran Tarkenton for the rest of this season with a broken leg.

Tarkenton piloted the Vikings to a 21-10 lead in the first three quarters and almost added another to his long string of NFL records by completing 17-of-18 passes for 195 yards and a touchdown.

His completion percentage of 94 percent was ahead of the 90.91 percent NFL record held by Ken Anderson of Cincinnati, but it takes 20 pass attempts to qualify for a league record.

Tarkenton was sacked for a 12-yard loss by defensive end Gary Burley late in the third quarter. He lay on the ground and had to be carried off the field. He was taken by stretcher to the dressing room and then to Midway Hospital in St. Paul.

Merrill Swanson, head of public relations for the Vikings, said Tarkenton suffered a fracture of the fibula, the smaller of the two bones between the knee and the foot.

"Tarkenton will be in the hospital a couple days and then will be in a cast and on crutches," he said. "it is very doubtful he will be back to play any more this season."

Chuck Foreman scored three touchdowns on a pair of 1-yard runs and a 6-yard pass from Tarkenton to give Minnesota a 21-10 lead in the first three quarters. Then with Tarkenton on his way to the hospital, rookie quarterback Tom Kramer took over and the Vikings exploded for three more touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Kramer passed six yards to Brent McClanahan for one touchdown, McClanahan ran five yards for another score and Sammy Johnson leaped one yard for another.

Steelers, 35-31

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Terry Bradshaw passed for 283 yards and three touchdowns, including two to John Stallworth, Sunday to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 35-31 victory over the Cleveland Browns and back into a first-place tie in the AFC Central Division.

The performance of Bradshaw, who left the game with an injured shoulder in the fourth quarter, offset a strong performance by Cleveland reserve quarterback Dave Mays. Mays, who replaced injured Brian Sipe in the first quarter, completed 17 passes for 269 yards and threw fourth-quarter touchdown strikes of 5, 13 and 3 yards to Larry Poole.

The Steelers, plagued all year by turnovers and penalties, played a solid first half. They scored four touchdowns and shut down the Browns after a 44-yard field goal by Don Cockroft on Cleveland's first possession.

MIAMI (UPI) — Gary Davis punched over from the one for one touchdown and set up a field goal with a 73-yard kickoff return Sunday and that was all the bruising Miami defense needed to give the Dolphins a 17-5 win over the New England Patriots.

The New England loss dropped the Patriots to 5-4 for the season, virtually eliminating them from playoff contention. The Dolphins raised their mark to 7-2, staying a game behind Baltimore in the AFC Eastern Division race.

The victory was the eighth of the season for Baltimore against only one loss, while the Bills took their seventh defeat in nine games.

The Bills took a brief 7-0 lead in the first quarter on a 73-yard punt return by John Kimbrough, but after that it was all Baltimore as the Bills were unable to pick up a first down until the second quarter.

Seahawks, 17-0

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Zorn threw two touchdown passes and Seattle's swarming defense turned in the first shutout in club history Sunday in a 17-0 victory over the New York Jets.

Zorn threw an 18-yard TD pass to running back Don Testerman in the first period and a 9-yarder to reserve back David Sims in the third quarter to spark Seattle to its club-record third victory against six losses. The Jets, who played without injured quarterback Richard Todd, lost their fifth straight game and fell to 2-7.

Seattle took a 7-0 lead on its first possession. Taking over on their 34 after the opening kickoff, the Seahawks moved in to score in 10 plays. Sherman Smith and Testerman had back-to-back runs of 12 and 20 yards and Zorn capped the drive when he threw the 18-yard TD to Testerman, who made a tumbling catch just over the end zone line.

Raiders, 34-29

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ken Stabler completed 23 passes for 255 yards and two touchdowns Sunday and Willie Brown and Jack Tatum intercepted fourth-quarter passes by Dan Pastorini to lead the Oakland Raiders to a 34-29 victory over the Houston Oilers.

Stabler threw 11 yards to Dave Casper and 14 to Fred Biletnikoff to give Oakland a 17-16 halftime lead. He then directed the Raiders to two more touchdowns and a field goal that handed the Oilers their fifth loss against four victories.

Despite the defeat, Houston remained a game out of first in the tightly bunched AFC Central, while the Raiders scored their eighth victory against a loss to stay atop the AFC West.

Broncos, 17-14

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Craig Morton hit wide receiver Haven Moses with a pair of second-half touchdown passes, the second an 8-yarder on fourth down with just 1:36 left, to rally the Denver Broncos to a 17-14 victory Sunday over the San Diego Chargers.

The winning touchdown was set up when cornerback Mike Williams was called for pass interference on the San Diego 30-yard line. Denver manuevered to the Chargers' eight, then Morton found Moses open in the center of the end zone.

The victory gave the Broncos an 8-1 mark in the AFC West.

Denver, after trailing 14-3 at the half, came back in the third period when Morton hit Moses with a 33-yard scoring pass, reducing the Chargers' lead to 14-10.

Slip past Eagles, 17-14

'Skins keep playoff hopes alive

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mark Moseley kicked a team record 54-yard field goal with 3:41 to play Sunday to lead Washington to a 17-14 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles and keep the Redskins' flickering playoff hopes alive.

Quarterback Joe Theismann, who threw for two touchdowns in the second half, engineered Washington's winning drive from his own 36. He completed three passes, including a 15-yarder to tight end Jean Fugett, but the drive stalled on the Eagles' 37.

Then Moseley, a former Eagle who had missed two field goal attempts earlier in the game, hit his 54-yard field goal with a following wind. The field goal broke the Washington record of 52 yards shared by two players.

Following the field goal, the Eagles began a drive from their 14 to the Washington 14 but Horst Muhlmann missed a 31-yard field goal attempt with 18 seconds to play.

The win made the Redskins' record 5-4 and kept them in the running for a wild-card berth in the NFC playoffs.

Giants, 10-0

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Bob Hammond scored from two yards out and Joe Danelo kicked a 43-yard field goal Sunday as the New York Giants took advantage of Tampa Bay miscues to deal the Buccaneers their 23rd straight loss, 10-0.

The Giants were handed the ball on the Tampa Bay 1-yard line in the first period when the snap from center on a punt attempt sailed high over the head of the Buc's Dave Green.

Larry Csonka lost one yard and then Hammond went off right tackle to score. Danelo kicked the extra point.

Quarterback Joe Pisarcik hit a series of passes in the closing minutes of the first half to move the Giants into field goal position and Danelo drilled the ball through with 38 seconds left.

Danelo later missed a 32-yard field goal attempt in the third period and a fourth-period Giants' drive ended when Cedric Brown recovered a Hammond fumble on the Tampa Bay 17.

The Buccaneers threatened seven times, twice driving to the Giant two, but were unable to score.

Falcons, 17-6

ATLANTA (UPI) — Middle linebacker Ralph Ortega scooped up a Rick Kane fumble and ran 14 yards to score the go-ahead touchdown with 8:02 left in the game Sunday and the Atlanta Falcons went on to a 17-6 victory over Detroit.

The Falcons, who had scored on a 31-yard Fred Steinfort field goal 30 seconds after the final quarter began, had been driving toward a touchdown several plays before the fumble recovery, but the Lions shut off that drive when Reggie Pinkney intercepted a Steve Bartkowski pass in the Lions' end zone.

After Atlanta took a 10-6 lead on the Ortega fumble return, Falcon linebacker Robert Pennywell added the clincher with 55 seconds left to play when he intercepted a Greg Landry pass at the Detroit 20 and ran it in for the Falcons' second touchdown.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bob Avellini threw a 37-yard scoring pass to Greg Latta with three seconds to play Sunday to rally the Chicago Bears to a 28-27 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

The Bears seemed headed for defeat with 24 seconds to play when Ed Podolak ran 14 yards for a go-ahead touchdown for the Chiefs. But after Brian Baschnagel returned the kickoff 21 yards to the Bears' 43, Avellini hit Robin Earl with a 20-yard pass before connecting with Latta for the TD.

Bob Thomas, who earlier had missed two field goal attempts inside the 40, booted the gamewinning extra point.

ELCO eliminates DelVal; Snow wins 24th straight

EPHRATA — Eastern Lebanon County (ELCO) knocked Delaware Valley out of the state soccer playoffs Saturday night with a 4-1 victory in the second half of a doubleheader at Ephrata Memorial Stadium.

Delaware Valley, which wound up its season with a 19-1 record, dominated play on the snow-covered, muddy field for most of the first period and took a 1-0 lead early in the second quarter.

Tim Balch, who played an outstanding game at midfield for the Warriors, brought the ball up the field, chipped it over a defender, and then made a perfect cross past ELCO goalie Lowell Mock. Steve Krause pushed the ball into the empty net.

The Raiders came right back within minutes to tie the score when Ron Harris tallied from short range following a scramble in front of the Warriors' net.

ELCO then moved in front to stay when Steve Wolf fired a shot from about six yards out which fullback Vinnie Cavalarro blocked, but Wolf got the rebound and fired it into the left side of the net.

Delaware Valley threatened to tie the game in the third quarter, but was thwarted by goalie Mock. Midway through the period, Harvey Myer hit Bill Rosado on a through pass. Rosado had Mock at his mercy and fired, but the goalie made an incredible move and deflected the ball, which hit the goal post and bounced out of bounds.

Mock also made a diving save on Cam Reed's 35-yard shot and blocked a Gene Malmquist shot. Bob Kyle also came close when he missed a head shot, which hit the crossbar with Mock out of position.

The Raiders, now 20-3, added an insurance goal midway through the fourth period when Bill Falk's shot deflected off a Warrior fullback into the goal and Paul Kline converted a penalty kick with about a minute remaining.

The victory moves ELCO into the state semifinals Friday at Shippensburg State College.

Liberty defeated Neshaminy, 2-0 in the first game of the doubleheader.

Snow triumphs

SWIFTWATER — Denny Snyder scored his second goal of the game with five minutes remaining which enabled the Pocono Snow to edge Ross Chain Bike, 3-2 Sunday in a battle of Lehigh Valley Soccer League unbeatens.

Snyder's goal snapped a 2-2 tie and came when goalie Richie Brands made a momentary save, but lost the ball and Snyder hammered it home to give the Snow its eighth straight victory and 24th straight over two seasons.

Joel Gomes had given Ross Bike (7-1) a 2-2 tie six minutes earlier when he fired a long shot which hit a stone and bounced over goalie Jeff Jonas' head.

Blaz Stimac put Ross Bike on top 1-0 15 minutes into the first half only to have the Snow take a 2-1 lead on goals by Bobby Hartman and Snyder.

Hartman's score came on a 22-yard direct free kick while Snyder's first goal came after he took a pass from Gary Olson.

In the midget game, Cas Bonczewski and Toby Lovecchio scored goals to give the Snow a 2-1 victory over Allentown Harugari.

Lehigh University defeated the Allentown Bicentennials, 2-0 in a special women's match.

ESSC bows

TAMPA, Fla. — East Stroudsburg State College's season-ending soccer trip to Florida got off to a disappointing start Sunday as the Warriors dropped a 2-0 decision to the University of South Florida.

The ESSC team, now 4-10-1, will travel to Winter Park to face Rollins College in a 3 p.m. game Tuesday. South Florida's record is now 8-5.

The Bulls scored both of their goals within the first eight minutes of play and then held off the Warriors on the strong play of Fran Lemons and Ralph Baker.

Shay Smyth was credited with the first goal after 4:06 of action. He took a direct free kick and the ball deflected off fullback Willy Becker into the nets.

Baker scored the second goal with 7:55 gone after a pass from Chris Berg.

Both teams had 15 shots. ESSC goalie Paul Williamsen, aided by fine play by fullback Frank Stulb, made eight saves compared to ten for the Bulls' Mike Flanagan.

HONG KONG KINGPIN — Australian veteran Ken Rosewall delivers a backhand in his match against American Tom Gorman in Sunday's finals of the Hong Kong Tennis Classic. Rosewall won the event for the second straight year by beating Gorman, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4. (UPI)

Ohio State, Michigan will battle once again for Rose Bowl bid

By United Press International

With all the suspense of the law of gravity, the Big Ten title comes down to Ohio State and Michigan.

The fourth-ranked Buckeyes and sixth-ranked Wolverines each ran up easy victories Saturday to set the stage for next weekend's showdown with a Rose Bowl trip to Pasadena, Calif., at stake.

Ohio State, after spotting Indiana an early touchdown, came away with a comfortable 35-7 victory to lift its league record to 7-0.

Michigan, last season's Big Ten representative at the Rose Bowl, blew by Purdue 40-7 to raise its conference record to 6-1. The Wolverines only loss this year was a 16-0 defeat to Minnesota.

Should Ohio State win at Ann Arbor, Mich., next week, the Buckeyes can book their flight to California. Should Michigan win, both clubs will share identical 7-1 records, but the Wolverines will get the nod having fared better in head-to-head competition.

The Buckeyes, capitalizing on the strong running of Jeff Logan and slick pass receiving of Jim Harrell, stormed past Indiana in the second-half Saturday after being tied 7-7 at halftime.

Logan racked up 154 yards in 20 carries while Ron Springs rushed for 72 yards, including a 1-yard touchdown run, before a Columbus, Ohio, crowd of 87,786.

"They are good, they are strong and they are well coached," said Indiana Coach Lee Corso, whose team scored on an 80-yard drive following the opening kickoff. "It was just our few guys against all of them and we didn't do bad.

"We honestly thought we could win this game," he added. "Our guys came here and tried to do the best they could and I think they gave a good account of themselves."

As Ohio State left the locker room to start the second half, Buckeyes' Coach Woody Hayes had his club run around the goalposts prior to kickoff.

"They needed a little more running after coming out of that dressing room because of the cold weather," said Hayes. "It loosened them up."

Corso, not to be upstaged, then followed suit and led the Hoosiers in a run around the goal posts and back to their bench.

"I did it because they did it," cracked Corso. "We try to do everything they do. We warm up like they do, everything."

In West Lafayette, Ind., quarterback Rick Leash tossed two TD passes to Mark Schmerge as the Wolverines struck back after last year's upset loss to Purdue.

Michigan, which piled up 317 yards rushing to Purdue's 63, scored 14 points in the second quarter and 21 in the third before clearing its bench.

Leach completed 7-of-15 passes for 43 yards while fullback Russell Davis picked up 167 yards in 21 attempts, including a 24-yard TD run.

Should Michigan lose to Ohio State next week, it may well be in danger of finishing third in the conference. A Michigan loss coupled with a Michigan State victory over Iowa would send the Spartans into second place.

Michigan State, with no Rose Bowl possibilities whatsoever, is on probation for recruiting violations.

It was a good week for Top 10 teams, with all of them winning: No. 1 Texas whipped Texas Christian University 44-14; No. 2 Alabama blanked Miami (Fla.) 36-0; No. 3 Oklahoma bombed No. 15 Colorado 52-14; No. 5 Notre Dame edged co-No. 16 Clemson 21-17; No. 7 Arkansas stopped No. 11 Texas A&M 26-20; No. 8 Penn State battered Temple 44-7; No. 9 Pittsburgh blitzed Army 52-26, and No. 10 Nebraska creamed Kansas 52-7.

Heisman Trophy candidate Earl Campbell scored two touchdowns and Johnny Jones caught two TD passes from freshman quarterback Sam Ansley as Texas solidified its hold on the No. 1 ranking with an easy victory over TCU. Campbell ran for 153 yards to bring his career total to 4,040 yards and move him into fifth place among all-time NCAA rushers.

QB Jeff Rutledge threw two TD strikes to tight end Rick Neal to carry Alabama past the Hurricanes.

Oklahoma racked up 478 yards versus Colorado to assure itself of at least a tie for the Big Eight Conference title. Billy Sims scored three touchdowns for the Sooners.

Quarterback Joe Montana scored twice from the 1-yard line in the fourth quarter as Notre Dame fought back to take Clemson, and Arkansas QB Ron Calcagni uncorked a 58-yard bomb to Robert Farrell to break a fourth-quarter 20-20 tie with Texas A&M and virtually assured the Hogs of a bowl bid.

Chuck Fusina fired three TD passes and set a Penn State single season record for passing yardage as the Nittany Lions romped over Temple, and Matt Cavanaugh threw for three first-half touchdowns to comfortably carry Pitt past Army.

ESSC hockey team posts fifth-place tourney finish

GLASSBORO, N.J. — East Stroudsburg State College finished with the most field hockey victories in the school's history by finishing fifth in the EAIAW-USFHA Middle Atlantic Regional Field Hockey Tournament Saturday.

The Warriors defeated the University of Maryland, 2-0, to post a final season's mark of 9-5. No other ESSC field hockey team had ever won more than six games in a season.

Coach Jan Garman's squad won four of five games in the tournament, beating Rutgers, 1-0; Lehigh, 5-0, and Glassboro State, 5-0, with the only loss to eventual champion West Chester, 2-0.

"I was extremely pleased. You couldn't ask for more than our players gave in this tournament. They can be very proud of their performance," Garman said.

West Chester won the regional title by beating Ursinus on penalty flicks after the two teams had tied in regulation, 2-2, and had still been even on two sets of penalty corners.

Lock Haven placed third with a 2-1 victory over the University of Delaware.

The top four teams will represent the region in the AIAW National Tournament Nov. 23-26 in Denver, Colo.

"If we hadn't had to face West Chester in the second round, I think we might have qualified for the national tournament," Garman said.

The Warriors scored both goals against Maryland in the first half with Nancy Skean connecting twice off rebounds from penalty corners.

On the first after 13:20, Hope Donnell took a shot after the corner and Skean followed up to drive the ball into the nets.

At 20:48, back Darlene Hershey stopped the corner and took a shot which rebounded again to Skean, who scored her 12th goal of the season, the team high.

That Hershey was in the attacking area was a tribute to the entire ESSC team which put tremendous pressure on the opponents' goal in each of the last three games.

"The whole team went on offense after the loss to West Chester. I looked up one time and every player was in the attacking area except our goalie. I am not sure but I think we might have been the highest scoring team in the tournament with 13 goals," Garman added.

ESSC goalie Dawn Dochterman posted four shutouts in the three days and had six for the season.

Garman was able to get all 15 of her players into tourney action with sweepers Debbie Smith and Cindy Custer and backs Vicki Geyer, Hershey, Debbie Coursen and Lynne Hitchner helping Dochterman.

Sue Marshall was injured in one of Friday's games and was replaced by freshman Diane Yunginger. Bonnie Kleintop played the other link.

Joining Skean and Donnell on the forward line were Vicki Scheidt and Audrey Stauffer.

Warriors sweep

UNIVERSITY PARK — East Stroudsburg State College ended its regular season in women's volleyball by sweeping a pair of matches Saturday.

The Warriors, now 32-10, defeated host Penn State, 15-6, 15-10, and Slippery Rock, 16-14, 11-15, 15-5.

The ESSC team will compete in the EAIAW Small College Volleyball Tournament Friday and Saturday at Binghamton, N.Y.

Rosewall triumphs

HONG KONG (UPI) — Fourth-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia successfully defended his $80,000 Hong Kong Tennis Classic title by beating the 1975 champion, Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, in Sunday's final.

Rosewall, the only seed left in the upset-ridden tournament, outclassed the American with a dazzling display of skill and experience.

The two finalists, who were doubles partners in the tournament, played in an amicable atmosphere — often exchanging comic gestures and admiration for each other's skills.

In the doubles, they had been eliminated by Roscoe Tanner and Marty Riessen, 6-4, 6-2, Saturday. But the American pair was beaten in the finals by Australians Kim Warwick and Syd Ball, 7-6, 6-4.

Highlight of Wightman Cup finale

King dumps Wade in 'pride match'

OAKLAND (UPI) — In many ways, it might have been tennis' finest hour, or two, or three.

Saturday night, with an American record crowd of 11,317 looking on, Billie Jean King and Virginia Wade played a match in the Wightman Cup that could go down in history as one of the fiercest in the history of the sport.

The match was meaningless as far as the Cup competition went since the United States had wrapped up its 40th Wightman title on Thursday, but you would never know it to have watched Billie Jean and Virginia.

"You always think about pride in matches such as that," said Wade, the reigning Wimbledon champion who finally fell to King, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6. "As far as I was concerned, the Wightman Cup wasn't over. I wanted to beat Billie Jean and I'm sorry I couldn't."

The match took two hours and 23 minutes to complete and when it was over King, two years Virginia's senior at 34, seemed a bit fresher.

"I think I needed a long match more than Virginia," said Billie Jean, who has won more Wimbledon titles than any woman in the history of the All England Championships. "Virginia has been playing since the start of the year and it's understandable she would get tired in a long match. I haven't had anywhere near as much playing time and only now I'm starting to put my shots together the way I want."

King underwent knee surgery for the third time in her career a year ago. This, she said when she came back to play in late spring, would be her last comeback.

"I always thought I would be able to regain my form," King said, "but I didn't think I could play this well this soon. I did a lot of things I wanted to do, but I also blew shots I should have made. I guess when you play long enough those things even out."

The third set was played savagely by both. King saved her serve in the seventh game, after going to deuce four times, for a 4-3 lead, and she broke Wade in the eighth for 5-3. King reached match point three times in the 10th but each time Wade fought back and the big crowd cheered as the British player, ranked No. 3 in the world, finally took the game to stay alive at 4-5.

Games followed routinely through the next four but then in the 14th, with Wade serving, King won on two passing shots for a love game and the match.

ESSC gymnastics team looks vastly improved

EAST STROUDSBURG — The return of eight lettermen including North Atlantic Gymnastics League champion Vince Griseto and the addition of four highly-regarded freshmen should mean a vastly improved men's gymnastics season at East Stroudsburg State College.

The Warriors will open their campaign at 4 p.m. today against Syracuse at the Zimbar Gymnasium. There are 10 meets on the schedule with four other major college opponents listed in Navy, Army, West Chester and Pittsburgh.

"This should be the best team we've had in four or five years," indicated head coach Bruno Klaus. "We've increased our skill level greatly and we should score between 180 and 190 points, about 35 points better than last year."

Griseto, a sophomore from West Chester, won the league floor exercise title last year and finished in the top 15 in the event in the NCAA Division II Championships.

Also back are four other league place-winners headed by sophomore Mark Johnson (Jersey City, N.J.), who was third in the all around competition and had a season's high of 46.15 points.

The others are senior Will Fontanez (Venango), fifth in the all around and third on the high bar; senior John Crosland (Whitehall), fourth in the floor exercises; and junior Craig Smith (Oyster Bay, N.Y.), sixth in the floor exercises.

All four freshmen, Mark Bonetti, Art Pelzer, Nick Pinardo and Franklin Winstead, were members of South Philadelphia High School's city championship team last season.

Compulsory meet

EASTON — Annette Yanovitch and Dawn Murray captured four firsts apiece Saturday to lead a host of area gymnasts who competed in a Class 3 compulsory meet at the Easton YMCA.

Yanovitch and Murray, members of the International Gymnastics School of Bartonsville, were the team's top performers.

Yanovitch finished first in the age 12-14 bracket in vaulting (8.8); balance beam (8.5); floor exercise (8.95); and all-around (33.35).

Murray, competing in the 15 and older age bracket, was first on the bars (7.9); vaulting (8.75); floor exercise (9.05); and all-around (33.70).

Other area winners included 11 and under competitors Amy Phillips in floor exercise (9.0) and all-around (30.40); Rita Dahn on the bars (7.55); and Darlene Trogani in vaulting (7.40).

Jack O'Brian's

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Beatrice Lillie's big heart, sad lady, is sturdier than her mind and body, her doctors told us, and has withstood the extensive rigors of geriatric decline; she knowns no one, stares out her window in London seeing apparently nothing beyond some drab inner secrets. We hope they change to rosy memories of her endless stage triumphs.

Bea Lillie could perform nowhere that we didn't race to see her at each earliest possible moment. She was a prolific performer, skilled at the nuances of nonsense, brilliant in her sense of fun onstage and off, managing great chic in her personal wardrobe, whatever the grotesqueries of her stage costumes, somehow inserting the unstated assurance that here was a comedienne, in fact a consummate clown, of professionally polished and naturally intuitive comic gifts.

Her almost copyrighted pillbox chapeau was Bea's personally signatured fez funny and stylish at the same time. Her frocks, suits and coats were uniformly luxuriously hers alone. The way she twirled her minks and sables was graceful, a trick of her comic trade adjusted to private life. Bea never was the gal to pass up a laugh even on entrace to or exit from "21," the Stork Club, El Morocco, Sardi's; even her selection of restaurants and nightclubs was impeccable.

Bea was no inverted snob traipsing to Harlem in ermine and pearls, though she wore both; she wouldn't patronize the "little people" as the imitation-socialites rehearsed for the social acceptance they attacked with their nouveau golden alpenstocks. No revealing visits to the Bowery to chortle at retroactive embarrassments of wrinkled and aging soubrettes in their last gasps at the limelight they grasped so demeaningly. Bea was a subtly more considerate start than to gloat.

Bea, 80 next May, even officially was a Lady; Debrett's Peerage so listed her immaculate nominal pedigree — she married a full Baronet, Lord Robert Peel which noble monicker did not change our protean clown into a stuffy, solemn, condescending pillar of imitation imperiousness. We remember only once the Bea pulled her official rank on anybody: when Eleanor and Billy Rose were in the worst skirmish of their marital War of the Roses, with Billy accusing Ellie of everything short of drowning him, Bea asked Eleanor if she still had the painting she'd given Ellie some years before.

No, Billy had claimed it was a gift to the Bantam Barnum alone and had liberated it from their Beekman Place mansion wherein Eleanor had barricaded herself against Billy's acutal assault on the handsome domicile. Whereupon Bea sent a formal demand on her finest Asprey's coat-of-armed stationery that Billy return said quite valuable painting to its rightful recipient, Eleanor — and signed with great insistent formality: "Lady Robert Peel." Billy got the message and the painting went back soonest.

That apart, we never remember Bea in anything but durably amiable mien at worst, in great high spirits most of her social time. And she loved the bright nightlife of the finest Probihition and post-Prohibition hangouts of her very long limelight. Bea's nipups without a drink were hilarious (she couldn't drink in the first place and when she tried, all but fell on her impish face at first sip. Noel Coward noted Bea's inadequate capacity in a creditable riposte once when asked what he though of the dry abomination called Prohibition. "I loathe it, except as it applies to Bea Lillie."

Bea's marital history remains private to this day; only her grief when her son was killed in WWII was recognized and even then, the great lighthearted lady quickly shut the door permanently on her sadness with the instincts of the great perennial clown.

Bea's lack of alcoholic tolerance was brought to our delighted attention one midnight in the Stork Club where she joined us. Champagne flowed, Bea reached and sipped, personality changed. She asked who the gent was who'd just said howdy. "Ben Gross, the TV critic" we replied. Bea promptly grabbed the champagne magnum like a cafe society Reggie Jackson and prepared to belt Ben into the Stork's bleachers. Seems he'd given Bea a bad TV review. We grabbed the bottle and held Bea in her seat, regretted it slightly later — it would have been a nifty one-day Cape Society story.

Our memories of Bea are endless, including even her old phone number before dialing just a couple of years ago caught up with her lovely home along the Thames outside London: it was "Henley 2." She even got laughs with that.

We were friends, she was marvelous to our tiny children, a revelation to them when they were old enough to appreciate stage brilliance, unto genius. She had a genius also for living as well as clowning and it's sad to realize she won't be able even to read this valentine to a great clown, a lady in every way including in Debrett's. We can only pray for a miracle. And do.

Increased use of electricity

READING, Pa. (UPI) — Homeowners facing growing oil and gas shortages are turning to electricity to heat their homes and water, and to cook their meals.

This trend emerges in a General Public Utilities survey of some 60,000 householders in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The number of those surveyed using natural gas and oil to heat their homes declined, while the number using electricity increased two per cent, compared with a year earlier study, explains Robert W. Smith, GPU's consumer affairs manager. He said the same pattern emerges for water heating and cooking.

Loves married man

FOR LIFE?: (Q.) I am in love with a 36-year-old man who is married, has two children, and is also a retired rock personality. I am constantly thinking of him and recently I broke up with my boy friend because I felt so guilty.

I know this is not an infatuation or another case of puppy love. I know my feelings are true and will last a lifetime. I don't think I'll ever marry because I'm so devoted to him and I know I must meet him before I die. Please help me.

14 in Connecticut

(A.) I have no doubt that you honestly believe everything you say. This is because I have been 14 and know what it is like.

But I am not 14 now, and I know that you will grow out of this unrealistic love; that you will find other, more practical loves; and that you will finally discover a love that you can fully share, and enjoy, for a lifetime if you are lucky.

Please do not let this foolish dream of yours cause you to do something foolish.

DIFFERENCE: (Q.) There's this girl Doris, who sits by me in English class. Until two days ago I thought I was in love with her. But then I found out she doesn't like "Works" by Emerson, Lake and Palmer.

It is my favorite album in the whole world and I don't think I could get along with her if she didn't like it, and I told her so. But then I kept thinking about her and can't get her out of my mind.

This makes me think I still love her. But can I really love her if I can't forgive her over something? We are both 16.

Unsure in Oklahoma

(A.) If you expect Doris, or any girl, to see everything exactly as you see it, then you are doomed to have a lot of trouble in this world.

I believe you are beginning to learn this fact and to better understand both yourself and others. As understanding grows, so does the ability to accept and to forgive. Perhaps soon you can accept Doris as she is and forgive her for not liking your favorite album.

Perhaps, too, you can ask her to forgive you for being unfair to her. It IS unfair, you know, to demand that she agree with you on all your likes and dislikes.

ORGANIC TLC — Greenhouse technician Michael Hurley tends to charges in Unity College facility, which is being transformed from classroom to plant clinic. (UPI)

House plants get first aid

UNITY, Maine (UPI) — Unity College is offering first aid for ailing house plants.

Workers at the college's greenhouse, which was built six years ago, are on call five days a week to diagnose problems and suggest cures for drooping dracenas and shedding philodendrons.

Greenhouse technician Michael Hurley says the facility is trying to establish a plant clinic and is also trying to teach people how to keep their plants healthy.

"You have to know your plants' needs and characteristics," he said. "Sometimes you might think a plant looks sick, but it's just in a dormant period. If you go crazy fertilizing and watering, then that will definitely be the end of your plant."

But if a plant is sick, Hurley wants to help. "We're available to help you out," he said, but there is one stipulation.

"If you think your plant has bugs, please don't bring an entire infested plant to the greenhouse. If you just bring one branch or stop in and describe the problem, that will usually be enough to figure out what's wrong and suggest a treatment," he said.

"But often the problem is a lot less serious than bugs," Hurley said. "People over water or under water their plants, or they don't put them in the proper light," Hurley said.

The greenhouse also offers to repot and propagate plants, charging only the cost of new pots and soil.

The facility is also collecting plants "as examples for students and local townspeople of what healthy plants can look like" and raising plants to sell.

Hurley said the greenhouse is also open for "friendly visits. There's a nice relaxed atmosphere in a greenhouse. A certain vibration — the kind of spiritual feeling you get when you walk into an old church. You can feel the life in a greenhouse. It's very peaceful."

Sha Na Na ratings climb

Grease balls sliding high

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — One's first reaction to an encounter with the Sha Na Na rock group is to put in a call for the cops.

The 10-member gang gives more the appearance of a 1950s San Quentin graduating class than a bunch of musicians.

They slouch around in undershirts, denims, sneakers, black leather, gold lame and a tattoo here and there. They are bound together by a common predilection for the greasiest hair since Elvis Presley first arrived on the scene.

Sha Na Na looks like a Saturday night police lineup after a rumble on the wrong side of the tracks. You'd swear you've seen their photographs on post office walls.

But turn the grungy congregation loose in a concert hall and Sha Na Na will pack the joint at $8 a ticket.

For more than a decade the all male mob has been enchanting crowds with top flight rock, zany stage antics and professional musicianship. Now Sha Na Na is greasily slipping into high ratings with a syndicated weekly half-hour frolic on 120 television stations.

Their names are Dirty Dan, Bowzer, Screamin Scott Simon, Chico, Jocko, Lennie and like that.

Much as they resemble a street gang specializing in the liberation of hubcaps, most members are former college students with nothing more than traffic tickets on their records.

They have no official spokesman nor leader, but Bowzer with his slicked back pompadour, black T shirt and pipestem arms has emerged as the most amusingly sinister of the group.

His real name is John Bauman and he's about as tough as any classical pianist who studied at New York's famed Juilliard School. He also may be the most articulate of the gang.

During a rehearsal break the other day Bauman explained Sha Na Na's origins. The group's name is taken from the refrain of the 1957 hit, "Get A Job."

"We began when we were students at Columbia," he said. "There were 12 of us and we sang as the Columbia University Kings Men. We had no professional aspirations. But in 1969 we began to play gigs and the ball started rolling.

"What we're doing is the best of 1950s rock as it used to be when everyone wore greasy ducktails. We came on the scene when rock groups had no show. They just stood on stage and sang.

"We were dynamic. We put in comedy and mythologized choreography. Then we added a lot of street corner group stuff — 10 guys moving all the time and having fun. Our success is based more on theatricality than music.

"We're the most successful rock act in history without a hit record. We've done eight albums but never had a top single.

"We do a lot of parody on the mood of the 50s. But musically we're straight rock and try to recapture the songs of the era as they were done originally.

"The songs we sing would be unacceptable if they were written today. If you wrote a number like 'Teen-ager in Love' you'd be laughed out of the business. It would be considered too adolescent, but it is acceptable as nostalgia."

Sha Na Na makes no pretense at sanity in concert or on the tube.

Bauman says Sha Na Na was the forerunner of the freaky antics of David Bowie and Alice Cooper. Their greasy, street tough image predated Henry Winkler's Fonzie by four years.

He also believes Sha Na Na appeals to all age groups. Citizens in their 30s and 40s remember the music and costumes as something they lived through. Those in their 20s relate the phenomena to their parents. To teen-agers and pre-teens Sha Na Na is a freaky new sound and look.

"We've never had a leader," Bauman went on. "We're a democracy. We literally vote on all decisions. What songs to do, how long to tour and other things. There are politics within the group but the factions are changing all the time.

"In concert everybody sings lead. Each of us has at least one solo shot and we break up into singing combinations on stage. We all participate in the greasy humor.

"We strive to have fun. What could be more ridiculous than a skinny guy like me playing a menace, mouthing off and holding my arms out flexing my puny biceps."

During hiatus the group goes its separate ways. Only two of the members are New Yorkers, Bauman and Denny Greene. The others are from various parts of the country.

In addition to setting boxoffice records, Sha Na Na is on its way to establishing a rock group longevity record. There hasn't been a change of personnel in the gang for more than five years.

Gloom grows for white Rhodesians

Editor's Note: Friday marked the 12th anniversary of Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain. In the following article, UPI Salisbury bureau manager Jacques Clafin reports on the mood of white Rhodesians as minority rule and unrecognized independence near an end.

By JACQUES CLAFIN

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The man muttered: "Why can't we pull off something like that?"

He had just watched a film about Israel's spectacular rescue of more than 100 hostages from plane hijackers in Uganda.

His lament was testimony to the growing gloom settling on white Rhodesians as their country moves into what could be the final lap of a world-defying exercise in white supremacy.

It is 12 years since Prime Minister Ian Douglas Smith said no to a British plan for eventual black majority rule and unilaterally declared independence to strike what he said was "a blow for the preservation of justice, civilization and Christianity."

Few whites would say it has been in vain. But a visibly growing number acknowledge the inevitability of black rule and drastic change.

So far this year, Rhodesia has lost through emigration 8,737 whites — more than the previous record loss of 8,710 when the federation grouping what are now Rhodesia, Zambia and Malawi broke up in 1964.

Spacious homes and farms are being vacated, sold for a fraction of their cost or, often, simply deserted by owners loath to draw attention to their intention to emigrate.

To curtail the flight of capital, the government allows emigrating families to take out only $1,500. Methods to overcome that hurdle are being devised daily. One is to buy precious stones to sell abroad. Another is to buy a plane, fly it out and sell it.

The impetus behind what those who stay disparagingly brand "the chicken run" is a guerrilla war that is becoming increasingly bitter. And what's more, a conclusive military victory is beyond reach, as Smith once admitted.

Since starting in earnest in December 1972, it has claimed the lives of roughly 3,700 guerrillas, 440 security forces members, 2,000 black civilians and 115 white civilians.

Military spokesman estimate there are about 3,600 guerrillas operating in the country while Western diplomatic sources report at least 21,000 insurgents, trained or being trained, outside.

Except for the 138 miles of border with South Africa, all Rhodesia's frontiers look onto hostile territory.

To combat infiltration, Rhodesia has virtually encircled itself with fences and minefields. And battalions of job-hungry black volunteers — blacks already make up about 80 percent of the army, most of whose officers are whites — are being churned out at an accelerated pace.

White students intending to enter universities see their deferments rescinded. Whites aged between 24 and 38 spend six months of the year in battle gear while those between 38 and 50 serve at least three months.

The kill rate stands at roughly eight to one in favor of the better trained security forces. And whites account for only a fraction of war deaths. But the war has drastically altered their previously leisurely lifestyle.

Farmers work, relax and sleep by their weapons and seldom travel except in convoys of mine-proofed all-terrain vehicles. Some have taken on hired guns — usually foreign mercenaries — to guard against guerrillas and tribesmen sent by insurgents on cattle-rustling sprees.

Since a bomb killed 11 people in a Salisbury department store in August, parcels carried into stores and office buildings are examined. A parcel left behind will be dealt with within minutes by army experts who blow it open in a way designed to dissipate any explosive material it might contain.

Not only the war, but also fear of the unknown is taking a toll on white morale.

Whites wonder aloud if majority rule will come through negotiations or violence and whether the perennially squabbling black factions will follow it up with civil war. And they question what majority rule, under the best of circumstances, will mean for the minority in a land of 268,000 whites and 6.4 million blacks.

Black Africa's experience with political independence does little to inspire confidence in whites. They frequently point to Uganda's Idi Amin or the Central African Empire's selfproclaimed emperor, Bokassa, who earlier this year earned headlines by beating a visiting American correspondent.

Rhodesia's whites — a predominantly conservative breed —question what will become of their standards when the black man takes over. So great is the emphasis on "standards" that jacket and tie is required in a hotel restaurant after 5 p.m. — even at countryside hotels deserted because of the war.

How great an upheaval black rule will engender for whites is uncertain. What is certain is that, despite the government's commitment to majority rule, little is being done to prepare for it.

There has been the business-sponsored "harmony campaign" meant to convince whites they don't suddenly have to love their black countrymen, "just understand them." And an increasing number of screen commercials are multiracial.

The ban on blacks drinking in white-owned bars after 7 p.m. has been lifted, and more multiracial gatherings are taking place.

A more touchy issue has been integration in residential areas. Anticipating a settlement, white real estate agents have sold properties to blacks in contravention of the law. The government at first threatened to have the new tenants evicted but, apparently wary of adverse publicity, has not done so.

Ann Landers

One-sided columns

Dear Ann Landers: I follow you as often as I can. Some days I miss, but I'm what you'd call a faithful reader.

Will you please tell me why your column is so one-sided? You print many letters about the abnormalities of men but never women. Surely you must know there are lesbians around as well as male homosexuals. Why has this subject never been mentioned in your column?

You print loads of letters about male impotency but nothing about the frigid female. In fact, once a while back you said, "There is no such thing as a frigid woman. The problem is clumsy or insensitive men."

Recently you ran a letter about a husband who "enjoyed sex by himself." (The wife wrote to say she was mortified.) Surely you know there are women who do the same thing.

Let's have both sides of the story, Ann. Your column would be not only more realistic but more educational.

Tired Of Half The Picture

Dear Tired: I try to be fair and print both sides but many more male homosexuals write to me than women. However, if you are a "faithful reader" you saw a letter just recently about lesbians.

As for frigid women, I've dealt with them in the column, too. I hold the view (and have expressed it in print) that "many are cold, but few are frozen."

Of course some women as well as men "enjoy sex alone." It just so happens that many wives have written to complain about husbands who do this but I've yet to hear from one male.

The only papers I know of that print every word I write are the Chicago Sun-Times and the Chicago Daily News. I'm sure there must be others, but I don't see them every day of my life, as I do these two.

I write seven columns a week — 52 weeks a year. Some papers don't publish on Sunday, so the subscribers of those papers miss one-seventh of me. Others don't run the column on Saturday, even though they publish a Saturday paper. (Why? Ask them. I'm available.) Other papers have space problems so they lop one or even two letters off my column. (Naturally, I am not happy about this but it's the privilege of every editor to cut what he wants to.)

This lengthy response is to explain that perhaps the reason you think I am biased is because you do not see every letter in my column every day — and undoubtedly, the ones you missed were the very ones you were looking for.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a horrible problem and hope you can help. I'm 17 and in love with a guy who makes me sick. Yes, really. This has been going on since my birthday in May when he took me to dinner in a nice restaurant. I got nauseated at the table — forced myself to eat anyway and then had to go throw up.

Ever since that time I try to avoid eating with him but when I can't get out of it, I do — and I always end up vomiting.

My Mother says no guy is worth it. I really love Ed and don't know what to do.

Troubled Freak

Dear Friend: Your problem is not as freaky as you think. Many teen-agers have it. It's emotional and must be resolved by talking. Discuss it with your school counselor and if more intensive therapy is needed, he (or she) will guide you.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill., 60611.
